

Key Events
(For Modern Times from a Biblical Panorama)

1 March 2020 - December 2020

6/3/20, "No part of the ocean now free of plastic waste" - news report. An appalling fact discovered during a scientific survey of crustaceans. In the 1970's then again in the 1980's, the writer tried to oppose the widespread use of plastics, paper, cardboard and metal cans to package and supply consumables to the public. That was in two different industries. In the 1970's it was in the soft-drink bottling industry. They wanted to abandon recyclable glass bottles re-used by offering small refundable monetary deposits to people who collected them and returned them to manufacturers. But to no avail because we had to 'keep up with the times'. In the next decade one found oneself with a few others voicing concern about new farming systems to be imposed on NZ farmers whereby their meat products would be packaged in small units of special cuts of meat wrapped in plastic and an oil-based polystyrene tray all nicely bar-coded for easy retailing and home meal preparation. Again, this was the way of consumer demand and the way of the future

As we note with smart phones in some November 26 articles below, all this was long ago planned after Adam was banished from the Garden of Eden. All this is Satan's plan to pollute and destroy the world. He is succeeding so far but fortunately Jesus is coming soon to intervene and resolve all Satan's and Man's nonsense. Meanwhile there are plastics and even worse, viruses, all through the oceans (refer The Economist, 22-28 August 2020, "The Aliens Among us" and "The Outsiders Inside").

8/3/20, Piermont being quarantined for Corona Virus. This is a region in Northern Italy. The Television station's Italian correspondent, had pronounced what we write as 'Piedmont' as "Piermont". That's what it sounded like. Probably, depending on the state of one's hearing, this appears to be another example of the Resh-Daleth (ר - ד) issue we discuss in the etymology sections of papers we write concerning our reconstruction of History. In them, as part of linguistic History, one includes a new understanding of the origins of our languages, the way we write them, the alphabets or other writing systems we use, etc. Also, one looks at the ways in which users of different languages import and export words, place names, titles, nick-names or even acronyms (sometimes) with each other. Of course, in that 'trading environment', meaning, spelling, even the direction in which one writes; for example from the right to the left for Hebrew and vice versa for European languages; leads to all sorts of mistakes in transliteration or translation. By back-tracking in etymology from a modern language into a more ancient language via transmission agents, we can add more information enlightening our search for true History. One can do this by tracing back from English through French or German then from those languages through Greek or Latin and away back through to Hebrew, Phoenician or even Chaldean. For example in the Hebrew word for Tyre (צור) or Tzor, we can trace our History in the way that word came to form words like 'treaty', 'tour', Mediterranean, 'territory', 'Tory' (landed gentry), the French 'sur' and English 'sure'. Elsewhere we discuss this in connection with many other issues. However, it is critical or vital snippets of information or 'data' in the Bible; which is the world's longest running history as well as being God's written Word and advice; that provide the key to unlocking the codes needed to reveal the Truth.

9/3/20, "Housekeeping Correction: Bethlehem is in Palestine not Israel". These were the words of a television news anchorman. But of course when King David ruled the city it was in Israel. The regional location is in the Land of Judah's clan. After the Israelite kingdom of David and Solomon split into the Northern and Southern kingdoms (935 BC), Judah became the southern kingdom. Bethlehem remained in Judah later to become "Judea" under the Romans. However, in AD 135, after the Bar Kochba rebellion, the Romans renamed ancient Israel "Palestina" after the ancient Philistines who had long since disappeared from the region (Gaza Strip). That was a snub to Israel's Jews, to deliberately rename the region of Israel "Palestina" because the ancient Philistines had been bitter enemies and persecutors of the Jews. Today, Bethlehem is well inside the land area Israel had taken off the invading Arab armies of 1948. Nevertheless, Israel was quite happy to let the mainly Arab (not Philistine-Palestinian) population there, remain, and live their lives, own their homes and run their businesses. Officially, today, the citizens of Bethlehem are inefficiently administered by the PLO Authority. Nevertheless, in God's eyes, Bethlehem is The City of David of Israel. As a result of these modern 'Palestinians' hatred for the returning Jews they suffer curses by continuing to occupy land that God intends Israel to have. According to the Bible, it is a similar problem encountered by other groups who in the past occupied that land (II Kings 17:24-27, Nehemiah 2:20). The television station making this crass apology will suffer the consequences of snubbing God and His Son who was born there. But that's the world today as it slides into Apocalypse and Armageddon before Jesus returns to put Bethlehem, Jerusalem etc; for once and for all; back under direct and sole Israelite authority. So enjoy the mockery while it lasts. If you are lucky you may have three or four decades to metaphorically thumb God's nose.

11/3/20, "Turn off the Internet one day a week to get people back to reality". An off-the-cuff comment from a radio journalist on a talk-back programme. He was discussing people being corralled by rubbish over the Internet. Its toxic mixes of fact, faction and fiction lead its addicts into irrational and contrary behaviour. Elsewhere, we have considered that people in any case prone to irrationality naturally gravitate to the Internet. It then exacerbates that propensity: refer also: 26/11/20, "Long ago our experience of smart phones was designed"; and 26/11/20, "Two Billion Skinner Boxes".

However, the context behind this comment was a discussion about lonely and isolated people getting energized or radicalized by things they watch on the Internet, then going out to act on some issue even to the extent of executing murderous rampages. Another context was the first anniversary-remembrance of the 50 Muslims gunned down in Christchurch, NZ, a year ago this week. That happened when an Australian who could not get a gun licence there proceeded to slay the Muslims after he easily got a gun licence and the weapons he needed to carry out this horrific murder. He firstly arrived in Dunedin then moved to Christchurch to do all this. Important, critical and useful information about the case, especially the circumstances under which the murderer got his gun licence, seems to have been concealed.

11/3/20, "The At Sign [ @ ] is called 'The Snail' in Italy". Revealed today on a TV quiz show. Interestingly, the symbol '@' was named as "The At Sign" in the question the contestant had to answer. Since 1971 it has been on nearly every typewriter- or computer-keyboard. On this laptop, the symbol sits on the same key as the numeral or integer '2'. "The 'At' Sign" for "@" is the most commonly used term in popular parlance for the "@" symbol. In European and Mediterranean commercial history people used it to represent the age-old “amphora” jar in a commercial transaction recorded on an invoice (viz; “3 jars @ $6 = $18”). Amphora jars had been the main vessel used to transport goods throughout antiquity especially in Spain and Western Europe. Originally, the amphora was the measure of volume used by the Egyptian Pharaohs (Em-pharaoh or “of the pharaoh”). In ancient Israel the ‘Jereboam’ and in Chaldean Babylon the ‘Nebuchadnezzar’ were the equivalent standard packaging unit for trading, buying or selling of ancient merchandise. In recent times many pre-Roman sunken ship-wrecks, for example found on the floor of the Black Sea, have revealed these jars in their holds.

In 1971, it was a British company in London which surprisingly won the contract to link together the US supercomputers. Apparently that is the entity that chose to use this particular symbol. This was one of the first steps in the process of developing today’s Internet which has become a vast world-wide network of computers of all sizes, shapes and capacities. “The ‘At’ Sign” began to appear on the computer keyboard and enter ASCII text to link people to the Internet and all sites on it. The symbol also links Twitter users, emails etc.

A few years ago, one observed or came to understand the Hebrew word to ‘eat’ in the Bible is ‘A All’ (Hebrew acol or אכל). Strong’s Hebrew-English Dictionary says ‘At All’. That word can then be represented by placing a nearly complete circle around the letter ‘a’ - thus “@”. The incompleteness of the circle reflects the fact that all amphora jars had a little air-space at the top of every vessel. That space or gap allowed for expansion of maturing wine traded in one of these vessels. It also represented the space for the cork lid to tightly fit in. Furthermore, sometimes when grain is stored inside an amphora jar, or in any container, it might shrink a little as the grains settle and dry out. The grains might also swell if they get damp. So the vessels were never absolutely full. There was always a small space of air under the lid. No one ever filled an amphora jar to the brim.

We can review this within the context of God’s warning to Adam to refrain from eating from the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil. Firstly, we can see that tree as literally being a touch-tronic computer. Perhaps Adam simply used the word ‘tree’ to describe it. Or that is how God taught Adam in those early days and Himself used the word ‘tree’ somewhat generically. Thus, the symbol also represents God’s warning that any attempt by Man to eventually develop a Tree of Knowledge like the Internet’s computer network although voluminous will always be incomplete. Also, our knowledge lacks God’s Wisdom. As many passages in the Bible, either directly or indirectly observe, Man’s wisdom is foolishness to God (I Corinthians 3:19). The Jewish prophet wrote 700 years earlier, "for the wisdom of their wise men shall perish" (Isaiah 29:14) and Jeremiah 49:7 asks, “Is their wisdom vanished?”

Indeed The Internet’s knowledge gap, that small space in the circle in “a for amphora - @”, represents two very important factors. Firstly, the knowledge therein is incomplete and lacking in what is needed to avoid receiving harm from knowledge. We use the Internet’s knowledge but not always for Good. Indeed man’s tree of knowledge now mostly computerized is a ‘tree of evil and some good”. God’s Tree, correctly consumed along with God’s guidance and tutoring would only have brought us good knowledge and wisdom had we all had the chance to live in Eden but for Adam’s fatal choice on our behalf; bearing mind each one of us would have failed to obey anyway. But Adam disobeyed and the rest of us never got to see or use God's "Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil". But also like Adam we all have strived for or hankered after it. Ever since Adam told his many children and descendants about it, and especially these days, some people are trying to re-organize all of the world's systems, governance and economy to save the world from itself using this manufactured 'Tree of Knowledge' a.k.a., The Internet - run and operated more and more by algorithms and robots and something God specifically designed us not to be. God did not make Adam as a robot but as a being able to think and choose for himself. The plan for the most part now heavily relies on the Internet which holds most of man's 'science' or 'knowledge' and smart phones which play a vital role in sourcing or distributing information. Secondly, it also represents from the Biblical perspective the fact that in the smart-phones nearly everyone is addicted to this new tree of knowledge. Indeed, the smart phone has almost become an integral component of The Internet. Through them, the Internet is gathering a vast web of personal information about nearly everyone. Even if one stays away from these hand-held receivers and transmitters, our details are delivered to the Internet via many other organisations and government agencies.

However, from a Biblical perspective, the real significance of the above points is that we have returned almost full circle back to the beginning in Eden. Perhaps using the analogy of the snake, that circle's tail is now almost back to join its head. "The 'At' Sign" is a symbol of how we seem to have come nearly full circle with our science and technology; but to destroy ourselves, not save us. And that's the most critical point, as we have come back nearly full circle to Eden and in that sense have almost managed to get back into the 'Garden' hence regain access to the Tree of Life therein. God will not allow that to happen. One of the main drivers behind all this knowledge is to extend life perhaps even for eternity via medical science or to find new ways to help the human body travel through outer space for long periods of time as the science fiction writers enjoy telling us. But all that is only for some - the elite obviously. However, Satan is deceiving the 'Elite' and 'IntelligenCIA' too because he wants the world back for himself and his angelic followers.

When it comes to "destruction" as John Lennon sang in Revolution, nuclear bombs, chemical and genetic weapons most immediately attract our attention. However, many commercial activities also are dangerously affecting ecosystem diversity. That's mostly, or sometimes only, observed at the micro-organism level, deep within our oceans (where viruses are most dominant) or in the outreaches of the world still rarely visited except, perhaps, by wealthy commercial interests doing so much unheralded damage. In another subtle way, our troubles are coming upon us via, for example, those little smart-phones. Under the R.A.D.A.R., they are delivering disastrous social- and mental-side-effects. One referred to this in the previous item, 11/3/20, "Turn off the Internet one day a week to get people back to reality". That should be very good advice. Even though it perhaps came to the originator's attention from the Biblical injunction to Israel to desist from any work on the Sabbath. That issue is just one of many ways in which this situation is wrecking the Earth, its people, social systems and environment.

The Bible says these aspects of life on Earth were all ultimately to lead to doom anyway. One of the Bible's main points is this happens because of the sin introduced by the First Adam then a 'sin nature' imputed to and inherited by everyone ever since until God's Kingdom Plan is completed. Gracefully, Mercifully and Lovingly, God's Only Begotten Son came and dwelled among us. Jesus of Nazareth temporarily made Himself lower (literally in the Hebrew original, “made Him lack a little from God”) than the angels as per Psalm 8:5 and Hebrews 2:7. Jesus came thus in order, as the Psalm continues, so that He could re-establish man’s Dominion over this Earth; which the first man would have enjoyed had Adam obeyed; by Himself paying the price while facing God on the Cross and redeeming us from the penalty we all incurred from Adam’s disobedience. Other Biblical passages explain how Jesus propitiated God’s wrath at Adam’s error and thus saved all who believe, agree or concur with this. That ‘salvation’ was never intended to be merely or solely soteriological (from the sinful nature we all have) though that must come first but a salvation from the long-term or long-run consequences of total physical disaster as well. In future, for believers, that will mean having a resurrected or new body to live in an environment rescued from Man’s sin before it gets too close to that mortal disaster (death). Resurrection does not mean having an ethereal spirit of some sort. It will be a body we use when Jesus returns to Earth to begin His Kingdom. He told every church member to pray for it to come. That’s why Communion is so important. We thereby consider the Lord’s suffering and death then resurrection until He returns and re-continues drinking the fruit of the vine with us along with experiencing many other wonders. We refer to it as the “Messianic Millennial Kingdom”. It has yet to come. It lasts for 1000 years until the New Universe is created. It’s capital is Jerusalem. It is not far away.

The ubiquity of hand-held smart phones is forcing the software engineers to withdraw from maintaining or updating most other computer-hardware systems such as PC’s and laptops. They are no longer very well supported. Applications on the Internet are swinging toward smart phone use. That’s become yet another harbinger of the time when no one will be able to buy, sell or participate in society unless they have a smart phone. With current smart phone models they need too much computing- (and battery-) power to manage data and its interfacing with each unique individual. Some of that computing could be more efficiently managed by embedding some of it on the individual. Thus, one day, users will have their personal and private information embedded in a chip on their forehead or forehead which will take pressure off the programmers to pack so much computing power on the machine alone. The smart phone will no longer need all the battery and computing power to handle as much data both in depth and breadth. Concerns about privacy and hacking will lead to and encourage moves by smart phone producers and users to cooperate on such developments. Eventually, people, whether they like it or not, will have to comply. Fortunately, God may well intervene on behalf of Jesus’ Church to Rapture us out of that nonsense then let it all rip with the Apocalypse.

11/3/20, “Ten of China’s latest Corona Virus cases are travellers from Italy”. Earlier in the day, this report on an international television station was preceded on a radio talk-back programme by a woman who had connections with Northern Italy’s manufacturing sector especially in the rag trade (fashion). She had noticed there were many Chinese workers in the northern Italian factories (now Chinese-owned perhaps) allowing authorities to stamp “made in Italy” labels on their garments. The idea is to enhance the brand-owner’s reputation by showing it was ‘made in Italy’. If it was made in China, rather than ‘in Italy’, would one buy it? We have all been surprised at or by this virus breaking out big time first of all in China and that it should turn up with such virulence and frequency, or so vehemently, in Italy. The high death rate in Italy is attributed to a large proportion of elderly people catching the virus. One wonders if that includes elderly parents of the Chinese workers in Italy who have been going back 'home' for the Chinese new year. This sort of movement is an equivalent of the Muslim Haj which the Arabians cancelled anyway. Presumably ex-pat Chinese in Italy have been returning to China to visit their families and receiving infection that way. Or perhaps the elderly parents in China have gone to Italy to visit their children working there and transmitting the virus that way. It is from such international movements between China and Italy that the virus has travelled throughout the formerly Roman Peninsula protected by the sea and the Alps but not from viruses. Hence there is a total lock-down in Italy and at least the Wuhan region in China. Whereas other countries are managing to cope with less drastic measures - for now anyway.

25/3/20, "We are saving lives, not economies". A comment from a politician as New Zealand decided to bring in a complete lock-down of a society and economy to try and prevent domestic transmission of the Corona Virus (Covid19). The Government has ruled that way and we must obey as one IS doing. Other countries such as the USA, Sweden and Australia are trying less draconian measures although in the USA various individual states are going further towards lock-down than other states. As an economist this observer would have considered taking the virus on the chin and battle through like Joe Frazier standing up to Mohammad Ali and winning a boxing bout. Ali went on boxing too long but believed his Parkinson's disease was not the result of too many blows to his head. Ali captured the World Heavy-Weight Crown and regained it twice in a career matched by no one else. Joe Frazier very narrowly lost 2-1 in three epic bouts with Ali, taking some prodigious punishment in Joe's sole winning bout much to Ali's consternation. Ali often admitted he was amazed Joe could have endured so much. Interestingly, Joe was said to be a Christian. Ali was a devoted and possibly devout Muslim. Ever since, Frazier has remained a very alert and intelligent survivor. Ali was Number One, Frazier, perhaps, Number Two. In later years, the Ali lip could barely string a simple sentence together.

This stuff about two famous and likeable boxers is a diversion but it shows us there are hard choices to be made from time to time. Matters for debate are not necessarily a one-way street (or bout). We may save many lives for now if we lock-down entire economies to fight off a virus (this time one not on computer systems). But how many will prematurely die as a consequence of such a severe set of bankruptcies and recessions and the mental depression that results?

Nor would it be nice watching once again undertakers going from house to house collecting bodies by the thousands for the fires of the crematorium without any sort of memorial service to farewell the departed. In the past, citizens would remain imprisoned in their homes for fear of venturing out and catching cholera or smallpox. As Christians, we are not concerned if there cannot be a regular funeral. We do not fear death either. Indeed we see it as God permitting us to come home sooner rather than later. Whether our life is extended could depend on what things we may yet have to contribute on this earth in this age in the proving of God's Good, Perfect and Acceptable Plan (Romans 12:1-2). There may be more for each believer to do here that we personally may not yet be aware of. If one's premature even rather ugly passing meant a better life for others as the world quickly gains a herd immunity and a fairly rapid improvement in the economy as often happened in the past, then so be it. "Let the dice fall ...", as the fatalist might say.

On the contrary, we believe these things are part and parcel of the sin of the world and the break-down since Adam disobeyed in Eden. We can ameliorate things but we cannot turn the clock back although with the future God has in store for His followers it almost is as if the clock will have been turned back. We cannot resolve all this. Any resolution at best will have to be a trade-off. Unfortunately the evolutionist paradigm means that many people are terrified they are not going to have their fair-share of- or go- at 'Life'. They are never presented with God's alternative made possible through the sacrifice of Jesus of Nazareth.

We may yet see economic forces over-rule the doctors, scientists and medical specialists (especially "epidemiologists"). That may happen at the governance level or, less desirably, on the basis of some variant of anarchy even if not fully-fledged. The Bible directs in Romans 13:3-4 we fully, not blindly as per the most evil dicta of the Hitler regime, obey the governments currently in place. We are permitted to debate issues. Obviously, non-christians are not welcome in the 'policy-debate'. Everyone is entitled to true and accurate information so that they can make informed decisions but Adam's fallen world with its imperfect information base is handicapped in this regard.

27/3/20, "Stay home, stay alive; a new world is coming". Refer also to 29/11/20, The eye of providence. We would agree in the very narrow and strict use of those words about a so-called "new world order". But we think of this in a quite different way, almost certainly, than the speaker's. He was a caller on talk-back radio. Something of a new world order is envisaged in the Bible. The first is a brief counterfeit order Satan prepares for his son the Antichrist to administer. Antichrist pretends to be introducing the millennium Jesus spoke of with His "Kingdom". The second is the true Messianic Millennium of Jesus returning in the resurrected body in which He departed terra firma 10 days before the first Pentecost in AD 30.

According to the Bible there will come a day when the world governments referred to in Romans 13:3-4 collapse or are removed in some way (II Thessalonians 2:6-7). They will be replaced by a regime involving firstly a world government then ten nations being delegated to run things. Apparently, at that point, the world government seems to disband itself in favour of the "Ten" which take over with one eleventh 'king' ruling over them. In this scenario, as the Thessalonians passage implies, the Antichrist-666 emerges as an eleventh king-president as the others hand over to him. An event like this virus threat and the strategies developed to defeat it easily could lead to the certain bankruptcy of countries verging there anyway. It would bring the majority of remaining governments into such 'negative-equity' territory. All that could be part of the mechanism that ultimately, perhaps even over a period of several years, brings on the development of a sole controller like George Orwell's Big Brother. He was dictator of Orwell's fictitious "Oceania" alone. The other two nations in the apparent trio that rule the world in Orwell's 1984 world probably had their dictators as well. Or that was as Oceania's propaganda would have the reader to believe.

The Book of Revelation sequences many Old Testament prophecies with a considerably lesser number in the New Testament. It puts them into chronological order spanning some 2600 years. Revelation 12:3, 13:1-4, 16:14 and 17:12ff, give a description of the Ten Kingdoms that take over from the World Government. They might, in effect, speak of the forthcoming governmental order we suspect this Covid19 virus, and others succeeding it, are leading us towards via the stalking horse of international cooperation to confront joint emergencies be they economic or environmental. However, it again is still too early to put too much probability on this particular episode as being the one that enigmatically and eventually brought about the admittedly fictional Big Brother regime in George Orwell's 1984. Besides, in the past there has been many a pandemic in the past. Often big changes in society followed in their wake so any changes we see following this one would not come as all that much of a surprise. An event of this type in today's global village however might more easily facilitate the introduction of a world-wide coordination of policies to combat a pandemic probably no worse than that of circa 1918 or others before it (unless authorities know full well this one is greatly exacerbated by dangerous, immoral and illegal genetic engineering inside science labs). The Spanish Influenza received its name because Spain was at the time one of the few neutral countries in WWI that still had a relatively free press which produced regular reports on that epidemic's progress. Thus, it became the leading reliable broadcaster of news of the international pandemic in 1918.

But whatever sequence of events does eventually lead to a "New World Order" that the talk-back caller mentioned, The Bible also indicates something the 16th and 17th Century church reformers considered. That view was that God will only allow mankind 6000 years to mess around with the Earth, especially with its environment, by mis-using his science and technology. So many people today believe "S&T" will save us from our problems. All the world's resources are being funneled into doing just that. That's directly the opposite to God's warning to Adam and Eve in Eden. And that type of thinking pervading the globe is why we must surely very strongly suspect we are indeed in the last days of the six millennia allotment God gave us before the Apocalyptic denouement that ushers in Christ's return

In the "Second Coming", we are not talking about some sort of cosmic coming together of man, universe and God in some Gaia-dream, Panentheistic or Mataranga Maori synthesis. We are talking about the physical return of Jesus of Nazareth or Yeshua b'Nazareth to defeat Big-Brother-Antichrist whose counterfeit seventh millennium appears to have been underway since 1/1/01. Remember the "Millennial Goals"? But before that and before the troubles turn truly apocalyptic Yeshua takes away in The Rapture all living believers and the buried dead saints as we all get our eternal resurrected body at that time. That literally is any day now because we are on so many occasions in the New Testament exhorted to be at the ready, blameless, alert and moved by faith and hope.

It has been fascinating in recent times to learn "Science" now believes any person could indeed live for a millennium. Of course, the problems of sin, disease and death intervene just as God warned Adam would happen if he disobeyed. As far as modern medical science and genetics is concerned, 200 years currently is the short to medium-term target life expectancy the scientists are aiming for. Some of this research is deemed necessary for space travel. One's ability to derive from the Bible conclusions like this have come from the last couple of decades development of our understanding of the full or compete genome. "Dream on", we say. In God's Plan, and in doing it God's way everyone gets a resurrected body for there is no death in the Eternal Age. Except for, probably, the millennial saints; because the Bible is silent on the long-term nature of their bodies apart from one particular interpretation of a passage therein (Fruchtenbaum); everyone gets a resurrected body. Even the wicked and unsaved of all time get one. Unfortunately, that's still bad news for unbelievers because they will be sent to eternal damnation with their new body. All the steps in that resurrection programme God has ordained are discussed elsewhere for example in Dr Fruchtenbaum's Footsteps of the Messiah. For now, we encourage everyone to get off the Gravy Train and board the Rapture Train and escape the coming carnage which is far, far worse than anything we know of including Covid19.

28/3/20, "NZ soils and farms lacking in 'beneficial' insects - UK has plenty". This observation came today from a researcher studying bees at Lincoln University in the South Island of New Zealand. In our view, based on the geological and earth history models we are developing from the Bible (and Dr Velikovsky's work in Worlds in Collision and Earth in Upheaval) and from the catastrophic perspective, this deficiency is because NZ has only been exposed to the open-air and atmosphere since the Great Flood or for just 4500 years. Before that, when God re-formatted the Earth in 4000 BC, New Zealand was on the sea floor. Whereas Britain was part of the original landmass God pulled up from the ocean which covered the Earth in Genesis 1:1-3. So New Zealand, Australia, Antarctica and elsewhere did not receive God's munificence. The fertility of New Zealand's soils really depends on nutrients received from life from scratch on mere ocean floor soil, rock etc. The soils, bacteria, bacteriophages and little critters that could survive the Flood without needing refuge in Noah's Ark quickly re-settled and recovered a viable but rather different environment upon the base of what was on the land before the Flood. However, in NZ's case that was quite different to the main landmass of the Afro-Eurasian and American continents joined into one overall land-mass until the Flood catastrophe caused them to move apart in the ten month period that the Earth underwent the ructions of that catastrophe. However, much of Britain was under ice in the first millennia or so after the Flood. The Gulf Stream began warming Britain and Western Europe some time after the Flood (2500 BC). It is not clear how long after the Flood warmth returned to the UK but it must have retained a heritage of soil fertility from the pre-Flood era when it was part of the land mass in the post-Edenic era (4000-2500 BC).

Britain became a place where mankind quickly re populated as the ice cap receded. It already had an abundant soil and insect asset under the ice where it survived or lay dormant. On the other hand, the islands of NZ emerged in a very unstable tectonic state deep under the salty ocean. That facilitated many mineral deposits to be laid down, which had been happening all over the globe in the 4.5 billion years since Satan's fall. New Zealand also received a share of the minerals and precious stones that made up the dwellings and environment on Satan's mineral Earth created for him and fellow angels to enjoy in his former dominion over this globe. For New Zealand over the last 4500 years it has been taking some time before the land could catch-up with soil-based ecosystems that have developed by now in the original land mass Man inhabited.

In summary, the main landmass that Britain was part of between Adam and Noah, had a good soil ecosystem base to begin with. NZ's has needed many more centuries to become enriched to the level of UK and other soils in the northern hemisphere or in Africa and the Americas. Trade came with mankind. Insects travelled on man's equipment and with his animals he brought into the post-glacial British Isles. For instance, the sheep and their shepherds came from Sepharad-Spain.

Other matters arising:

In support of the sort of argument being posted here, there has been an informative development from work by researchers at Auckland University. From tree-ring studies (Dendrochronology) they possibly discovered or inadvertently uncovered evidence that giant Kauri hardwood trees only managed to begin growing here after flotsam seeds or seedlings arrived and established themselves on the new soils of NZ within just twelve years of the Flood (2500-2488 BC). The university team managing the study has managed to extend a dendrochronology for the samples they have of un-fossilized once-buried kauri tree wood. A seedling would presumably only begin exhibiting tree rings by circa 2488 BC if it had started growing on or about the year 2500 BC. That discovery which must be taken with reserve at the moment is an example of how in these Last Days of Daniel 12:4&9 and of “Noah” as Jesus warned or advised new understanding of God’s Will and Plan would be revealed.

No one can be sure of much these days with the corrupt state of science today as Arthur Koestler demonstrated in his book The Sleepwalkers. His latest reviewer, Mr John Gray, in a new edition of Sleepwalkers, says that Koestler slipped into a parallel parody of science (via parapsychology and related ‘studies’) he had shown the Aristotelians, Ptolemaics and others fell into at different stages of History. Newton and Kepler at least tried to find some sort of harmony between God’s Word in the Bible and the real world and cosmos around us. But those two faced the Daniel 12:4 & 9 restrictions every generation before us faced. Nevertheless, by changing the standard model of NZ’s geological history it’s possible an explanation one is proposing here may help explain this soil deficiency and many other things. The university may yet find wood samples that can enable them to extend the currently documented sequence to before 2588 BC to disprove the hypothesis here. Our Bible-based hypothesis suggests that will not be the case. The speaker on the radio this morning was speaking more from the perspective of South Island soils. The lower and mid ranges of the North Island have suffered a lot more tectonic activity more recently. Especially in regard to the massive Taupo eruption in circa 200 AD. That date has been brought forward to AD 400 on the basis of some radio-carbon dating recalibrations. During the Flood only parts of the North Island (e.g., Northland) may have broken the ocean surface. Whereas later volcanic eruptions may be responsible for the emergence of other parts of the two main islands here. Whatever, the dogmatic uniformitarian evolutionist model is not working for us and just yields even more confusion.

In these Last Days that Daniel 12:4&9 speaks of where much travel and increase in knowledge is the norm, revelation of previously little understood phenomena was promised. The prophet heard that he would not understand what he was writing. In the angel’s words, the prophecies were not for him or his generation to understand or see fulfillment. Nor would many subsequent generations understand them. Primarily, they were for one particular or special future generation. We seem to be ironically flooded with data from science and archaeology and many other fields that confirm what has been happening in the Sun’s Solar System and on our planet over the last six millennia when God set it all in place out of the chaos reigning in the Universe in the wake of Satan’s Fall (4.5 billion BC?).

In part to signify why he had received these prophecies, and to signify they are now for our time, Daniel was the first Jewish prophet to get much specific detail about the emergence of the seed of the woman siring Satan's son from Genesis 3:15. That is the Antichrist who would operate in the Apocalypse as world dictator (or possibly Orwell's Big Brother). That troublesome time was to be fulfilled in the last seven-unit batch of seventy seven-year periods determined upon Israel from circa 500 BC. Apparently, as far as we understand, 69 'batches' of those seven-year periods were fulfilled by the time Jesus came (7 BC). The last one, i.e., the Seventieth, got 'cut off'. It would have eventuated in Jesus' lifetime but for Rome's 'cut-off' (execution by crucifixion) of Jesus' life partly the result of Israel's surprising and unexpected rejection of Him. Thus the Seventieth seems soon to be activated before many reading this die. There's plenty of nonsense all around us like the radiation waves circling Black Holes in Space we cannot directly look at. Nevertheless, we know black holes are out there.

Thus, it potentially is now available for an imminent generation of Israel, quite possibly this one now, to repent over its behaviour and that of previous generations going back to AD 30 for their "iniquity" [Leviticus 26:40-42, Isaiah 65:7, and probably by implication Isaiah 58:9ff, 63:11ff and Ezekiel 16:61 ("Thou shalt remember thy ways")]. Jeremiah 50:1 to 51:64, a little earlier than Daniel, also had some things to say about the Antichrist. His words there concerned both the near and distant future whereas Daniel's prophecies were mostly about the distant future which may explain why Israel's rabbis put his writing into the 'Chetuvim' section of the 'Tanaakh' (Old Testament). Separating already-fulfilled prophecies from other un-fulfilled prophecies requires a proper world history to assess them with. Otherwise, how do we know what has happened in the past if the history as our Academies have written it is incorrect? That of course is precisely part of the problem we currently have in decoding the unfulfilled prophecies. Nevertheless, Jesus' words in the Olivet Prophecy, information in The Book of Revelation and our re-organisation of world history beginning from a reform of Egyptian chronology all helps clarify what will happen, when and in what sequence. By implication of Daniel 12:4 & 9, the clarification we now have has arrived for the generation that was to experience these things. The New Testament clarifications were not necessarily to be understood by those receiving the information in the First or Second to Twentieth Centuries.

All this points to one of our other theses that 1/1/01 was the introduction of the counterfeit satanic millennium. This Covid19 chaos, climate change and many other diversions, are being used to convince mankind that if Satan's science and technology are listened to, the problems emanating from Adam's fall 6000 years ago can be defeated and all will be hunky dory. In September of 2001, Satan announced the birth of his 'only begotten son' as one has explained elsewhere. So it could well be all go in terms of the Bible's 'End-Time Scenarios'. The Bible's Last Prophecies concerning events concluding fallen Man's control of this Earth are now very quickly, like the birth pangs of a ninth-month pregnant woman, coming on stream after what has seemed like a 2000-year hiatus. Play on Satan, your just deserts are not far away now.

29/3/20, Good News for Libya from Covid19. The dire prediction in "12/1/20, Turkey-Russia get Libyan and Syrian warring parties to cease-fire" got nullified by a surprise 'out-of-the-blue' development. Covid19 has worked where governments have failed. Libya's warring parties are trying to jointly combat the virus now instead of fighting each other. Let's hope other governments do not fail in their work on Covid19. The Bible warns us to be on guard for something, one day, to trigger a collapse of governments to bring the world into a new Ten Nation system paving the way for the rise of Antichrist-666. One wonders if this news from Libya adds another clue to our suspicions that is mostly what this Covid19 thing is all about - reorganizing world governance.

29/3/20, "Mother Nature's revenge". "Nature is fighting back", say proponents of this cliché. Or, perhaps, "it's because of the way we are building the world (see below for 12/4/20). In our view, of course, "Mother Nature" is a figment of man's imagination. There is a world-wide network of ecosystems. To collectively to refer to them as "Mother Nature" is ridiculous. But if people want to be, so be it. 'Mother Nature's more extreme disciples are those weird greenie types and the Gaia Hypothesis nutters. We say it is God's creation. He put Man here to make something of it. Unfortunately Adam decided to run it his way. Fallen Adam, and his equally fallen descendants, soon started mis-managing (raping) the world's ecosystems in blatant disregard for God's advice, instruction and laws ('of Nature'). Instead of continuing to attend God's tutorials as Adam had been doing, especially before the woman was formed from him, Adam decided on our behalf to use the computer in the Garden of Eden in flagrant disobedience of God's command not to. Perhaps, assuming Adam had passed that test, he and his descendants would have been permitted to use that tree. It seems we are attempting to get back to a counterfeit of it now with our 'Internet' and its networks of computers and 'smart-phones' which are not very 'smart' in reality.

God allowed Adam to choose to reject or accept Satan's advice that if he did eat (consume, Hebrew acol, a-all, at-all or '@'-all) from that computer, he would himself become like God. Well, now we see just how bad Satan's advice turned out to be. What's really happened now is that Man is so much out of control of events that he is now going to turn to Satan's son to rescue him. Well, we know what the Bible says about that too. Ironically, Adam would not accept God's Good advice, accepted Satan's Bad advice and has ended up totally under Satan's thumb instead within God's Wisdom, Care and Love.

30/3/20, "Tyrants in Beijing and Budapest". A comment made in a TV discussion on the fragility of the EU in the context of the "Covid19 pandemic" and the ongoing economic impacts. The German correspondent on this international television programme said that if the EU does not better manage this crisis then tyrants would come out on top especially if they appear to do better in places like Beijing, where there is one, and Budapest (assuming it has one). We know the origin of the word Tyrant. It refers to the Tyrians who at times ruled Rome. Roman historians took a very negative attitude toward the 'Tyrants', at times bordering on emotion and irrationality. Hence a 'tyrant' is now a dirty word. As far as we can establish; at one time, perhaps not the same time as in Rome but possibly so; Tyrian-tyrants also took control of the Persian throne for a time under 'Arta-Xerxes'. He was "Ahasueras" in some Bible translations. During their Megillah or Haggadah for Purim, the Jews in their religious services refer to him as 'Achash-v-rosh'. That name or title is a play on words, or nick-name, for 'drunk chief' or 'booze-head'.

From the above, we can infer "Ahasueras" or 'Arta-Xerxes' could be interpreted as the "Tyrian Shahinshah". We have to remember that the "King of Tyre" (מלך צור) is also a title Ezekiel 28:12 gives to Satan. The implication here is that for a brief period perhaps around 500 BC, Satan controlled the three main kingdoms in the West, i.e., Persia, Tyre and Rome and indirectly the Greeks and others as well. Whether Satan so directly controlled the kingdoms further East such as in India and China as well as the Americas is unknown as records from those regions are not available to this writer. If the Jewish nick-name is any guide or factual in any way this man might well have been the forerunner of a Robert Clive (of India) or Cecil Rhodes (Rhodesia-Zimbabwe, South Africa) or perhaps even a Spanish Cortez. Just how autocratic all these 'tyrants, either of Rome or of ancient Persia, actually were is impossible to ascertain from this distance. Furthermore, it was a different age. Although in saying that, human nature has changed little and may even have deteriorated since then. We may well be in for more tyrants before the world's ultimate tyrant takes over.

What is also interesting from this comment is that it referred to "Hungary", of which Budapest is the capital. That nation's name is derived from the name of the fearsome Huns or Han Chinese who currently dominate the other ethnic groups (e.g., Tibetans) within Mainland China. They penetrated right into central Europe as the Roman Empire fell in circa 400 AD. Some historians attribute the fall of Rome to pressure from the Huns or Han Chinese in a parallel to the Covid19 that broke out in Northern Italy recently. In China, today, the Han populate about 93% of modern China. Tibet, and the north-west regions of the modern 'state' of China is where subjugated Tibetans, Uigers, Kazakhs (Cossacks) live and outer Mongolia lies to the north while other (Inner) Mongolians make up yet another minority in Northern China. These are vast regions populated by non-Han tribes but account for only about 7% of China's billion people. It is sad to see that Mr Victor Orban, Hungary's current leader, is being considered a tyrant. The Hungarians are a fantastic group these days who make a fabulous contribution to European culture and life in general.

One should note here the Cossack-Kazakhs toppled the Tsarist regime in Russia in 1917 only to lead to hundreds of atom bombs being tested in their lands by the Stalinists and other Soviets who built up that country's nuclear arsenal. One might suggest that serves them right for being partly responsible for the massacre of a Christian family (the Tsar's) even if it was Russian Orthodox with all its religious icons or 'idols'. Perhaps the Han in China are keeping a wary eye on their Cossack minority. As we also note elsewhere, the derivation of 'Cossack' is Cis-Caucasus, the mountain range also known to us in its etymological roots as 'Gogasus'. Gog is the entity which leads the nations North, South and East of Israel in the invasion of Ezekiel 38:1 to 39:16. Overall, History teaches us to be very wary of Cossacks and the Han.

The Han is one of the most repressive ethnic groups in today's world. Essentially or originally pagans, they became adulterated with a curious mix of Confucianism and Buddhism from circa 500 BC. Their science of 'Fang She' is related to or akin to Matauranga Maori of the NZ Maori within the broader panentheistic synthesis. Fang She does reflect some of the catastrophic events of the past that have shaped so much of animals' and humans' perceptions of things or of the past. The Bible tells us why they happened but Fang She has to invent all sorts of mystical explanations. However, that just leaves the people who follow that stuff completely in the dark. The treatment of animals in places like Bangkok and China reminds us of what ancient historians told us about the evil Amalekites of the Middle East. Amalekites were also known as 'Children of the East' (c.f., Judges 6:33, 7:12, 8:10 or I Kings 4:30). In the modern Chinese (and Thai) food markets we see how they herd and encase all sorts of animals together in cramped environments which those animals would never normally experience or mix in. In the wild, animals only mix with members of the same species partly in order to remain free of diseases other animals have. The poor creatures are viciously treated in those places. Alongside human food markets and in order to supply them with product, these 'easterners' slaughter anteaters (Pangolins), bats, tigers etc., just for their scales, wings, paws or whatever because of some weird beliefs, derived from their religious and philosophical roots, in the magical powers of animal organs. This behaviour is simply a dreadful indictment on this world today. For nearly two decades since the Sars outbreaks, the world and the Chinese government have been ignoring this nonsense. Worse, they even put one of the most hi-tech genetics laboratories alongside one of the worst of those inhumane and dreadful animal-food markets. But that is where the sin of Adam is leading us to in the dreadful treatment of both people and animals especially by some of the most morally and ethically devoid people on Earth including western financiers and scientists. Like King Saul in the Bible, westerners are doing deals with Amalekites.

If all this is indeed part of the Amu-Meleck or Amalekite prophecy-history recorded for us in the Bible, then the world needs to urgently take note of this emerging problem. Not that we can do much about it because the Bible says "The Lord will have war with Amalek from generation to generation" (Exodus 16:17). That means if God is having so much ongoing difficulty with these people then we are not going to even make a dent in their evil - nevertheless God surely will. Through the surnames of some people many Amalekites today seem to be scattered amongst the Muslim nations especially in the Middle East region. As this observer continues to monitor the current whereabouts of Amalek or distribution of Amalekites today, one is looking to the world between the Euphrates and the Sea of China for an answer. It's a bad, bad world but Jesus is coming. Only then will Amalek, Gog, et al, be destroyed. The best way to opt out is to get off the Gravy Train and get aboard the Rapture Train with Jesus of Nazareth.

31/3/20, "Our greatest hope lies in Science". Another solution to the Covid19 pandemic. In the word "science" here they are referring to methods to either mitigate the effects of the virus or the race to find a vaccine. Once again we have the utter failure to trust in God. The people who say these things do not believe God nor in His warnings given to mankind that man's ways will not solve the world's problems which are the direct result of Adam's sin. In the Apocalypse, God will reinforce that message by instructing His angels to deliver a new and different series of plagues and disasters, in contrast with today's. God hopes any troubles will get His people to turn to Him, but those in the Apocalypse are specifically and purposefully designed to get people to turn to God. Many will then do so but it is far better to come into Christ's Church now and escape those things.

1/4/20, "Breakdown of law and order - lawlessness". These words from a caller on a talkback radio station complaining about two rural communities in NZ where locals were blocking public roads. One region was in the far north and the other a small village community a few kilometers out of the Wellington City Centre. These 'locals' are taking on the right to monitor potential breaks in the Covid19 regulations. These require New Zealanders in the Covid19 Lock-down to stay within their "neighbourhood". Cyclists seem to be passing through the Wellington village. They are probably complying with all safety aspects but not the spirit of the "neighbourhood" aspect. Many other countries are also implementing this type of regime. It's always very difficult writing the regulations to cover every situation. But it was interesting this caller sees all this as the "beginning of lawlessness". For that is what Apostle Paul received from the Lord Jesus the Nazarene, Jesus the Christ or Messiah of Israel. “Lawlessness” and withdrawal of proper governance is the sign that would immediately precede the revelation of the Antichrist-666.

One believes it is now possible to identify the Antichrist by the very precise method given by Revelation 13:18. II Thessalonians 2:1-12 explains the general circumstances through which the “Man of Lawlessness” is revealed. II Thessalonians 2:7 notes that “the mystery of iniquity” is always with us until the one who currently restrains iniquity and lawlessness is “taken out of the way”. This talk-back radio caller only sees those very recent Covid19-induced developments as a sign lawlessness is on the way. However, after eight years at the toilet block and the way the BBC crowd flaunted rules and the police either did not bother turning up or rarely took the necessary steps to take the people away and prevent them from repeating the behaviour quintessentially also is lawlessness. Even before that, one has noticed concerning trends in the failure to uphold standards in this regard. Internationally, the Saudi Prince Mohammad bin Salman (“MBS”) had a critic, Mr Kashoggi, murdered in a foreign embassy. No one brought MBS to justice.

1/4/20, “Shovel-ready projects urgently re-scheduled”. A term used to describe infrastructure projects designed to get as many people as possible back into a workforce as we rebuild the post-Covid19 economy. However, one was reminded of the probable need for shovels to bury the Gog-Magog invaders of Israel. They will have to be urgently buried as the Lord destroys them in God’s Plan to remind the world He created it. God is in control but we need to acknowledge our father Adam, his error imputed to us, and on our behalf, rejected God’s advice in regard to the eating of the tree of Knowledge in the Garden of Eden. Returning to the present, God will miraculously save Israel from these invaders. Israel will not need to repent on this occasion as God in His Grace destroys the invaders to show the World as He declares in Ezekiel38:23, “Thus will I magnify myself, and sanctify myself: and I will be known in the eyes of many nations, and they shall know that I am The Lord”. After that, though, as Antichrist then organizes nations to destroy Israel, then the nation will have to repent and call on God to save it.

Thus, in order for Israel to be rescued from the Antichrist at the end of the Armageddon Campaign at the end of the Apocalypse-Tribulation, the nation of Israel must confess its sin, and that of its forebears in AD 30 (Leviticus 26:40-42, Isaiah 65:7.), in rejecting Jesus’ of Nazareth’s Messiahship. The defeat of the Gog-magog invasion is part of God’s plan to warn the world before the Antichrist takes over. Actually, in Dr Fruchtenbaum’s view, it is that destruction that enforces a massive restructuring of the world’s governments from over 200 into just 10. However, based on economic prognostications resulting from the Covid19 pandemic, it seems clear many if not most governments will no longer survive without merging with neighbours in order to maintain IMF or World Bank lines of credit. That may happen sooner or later e.g., after another deep ten-year depression as in the 1930’s. The post-pandemic economic chaos may also lead to the fulfillment of the prophecy (Zechariah 5:5-11) about women transferring economic power from existing centres like London back to Shinar or Babylon where we all came from four millennia ago in the closing stages of the First Era of man on Earth; of the three we have had so far; which ended at the abrupt cessation of the Tower of Babel Project. That project has been revived but now it seems heading for a roadblock if not toppling over a cliff. But we shall see.

3/4/20, "After the Covid19 Tsunami comes the economic wreckage". An observation on a radio panel discussion. The scientists and boffins have succeeded in getting governments to abandon all decision-making and delegate it to the boffins. As we know from the way science is being corrupted, this is dangerous. The boffins have little concept of the complex web of arrangements and transactions that the world economy represents. They think that saving lives is the prime objective. It is an important objective but if the survivors are left with a system that makes it nearly impossible to survive, one wonders what the point is in reducing deaths from Covid19 from 4% to perhaps a more normal 0.1 % in regular influenza cases. It is tragic that Covid is forcing the death rate as high as 4% but that may be the cost our generation must bear as previous generations did in Europe in the Bubonic Plagues or even of the magnitude the world suffered in the 1918 'Spanish Influenza'. Nevertheless, it seems the majority of world governments seem prepared to take the current course for at least four weeks in NZ for example.

4/4/20, "Turkmenistan bans use of Corona Virus in their media releases". We have been wondering how the central Asian republics have been doing in this Covid19 crisis. They straddle across territory between China, where the virus probably broke out, Iran and Italy where the virus first exploded out of control in Europe. The TV programme reporting this also had an historian speak about press freedom and the Spanish Influenza (see next item). He said that the "Spanish" outbreak spread around the world as soldiers returned from the WWI war-fronts with the disease and of course diffused it nearly everywhere. However, Spain had been neutral in that war, as in WWII. The Spanish media was uncensored in 1918. Most other nations either censored their media or relied on media to self-censor for internal security reasons lifted after each world war. In Spain, the newspapers reported on the outbreaks there. Gradually that discussion broadcast around the world. For example, in San Francisco, after hearing about what was going on in Spain, the mayor worked with his community to get everyone to begin wearing face masks and working to isolate the flu bug. The city came through the "Spanish" Influenza with much better results.

4/4/20, "Telling the Truth bluntly and transparently will help us deal with Covid19" To avoid mass panic you tell the truth. You don't "manage the truth". "If you downplay something you lose credibility". A few days of solace may in fact deny people the ability to get ready and prepare to face the monster which often turns out to be not quite as fearsome as you "imagined" when firstly given the full truth. However, we are not getting sufficient data on the deaths attributed to Covid19. Therefore, we suspect that many such deaths were not really the person's killer. Instead, a set of pre-existing and chronic or acute medical problems they already had were really responsible for those people's possibly slightly premature demise. Many people are just very old and in effect dying from a different variant of pneumonia rather than "Covid19. Also, nations are not collecting serology tests to measure the extent to which the Covid19 virus has spread throughout the community thereby indicating to us just how many contracted the virus but their immune systems protected them perhaps even without the patient knowing or realizing it. Then in the rush to develop vaccines there will be more half-truths.

12/4/20, "We have many more crises than Covid19; It's the way we build the world". A commentator this morning on a nation-wide radio programme, reminding us that many other crises were besetting the world long before Covid19 came on the scene. His point about "the way we are building the world" in part reflects the sort of things others mean when they say “Nature is fighting back” (refer 29/3/20, “Mother Nature’s revenge”). So now is another good place to reproduce the list of crises the author is compiling:

- Money laundering;
- International banking, (world) currency and trade issues;
- Tax rules for large international conglomerates;
- A living wage as work is robotised;
- Copyright theft and Property Right breaches;
- Nuclear technology issues;
- Monitoring "looming antibiotic apocalypse" (c.f., 19/5/16, 28/4/17);
- International Terrorism;
- Bringing war- and genocide-criminals to international justice;
- Repatriation of criminals to their 'home' country (Refer item 16/7/18);
- Planning for or adapting to Global Warming Impacts;
- Pandemics in an over-sophisticated world of hi-tech (refer 12/4/20);
- Poaching and trafficking of rare animals and their by-products;
- Trafficking of E-waste hazardous substances
- Monitoring International fish stocks;
- Trafficking of illicit halucogenic drugs and Drug Cheats in Sport;
- Internet becoming its own mind by AD 2030:
- Controlling Internet hackers and cyber-crime;
- Inter-governmental cyber warfare issues (Refer item 17/7/18);
- Weaponized social media and Internet (Refer item 25/3/19);
- Governments too small or weak to cope with technology advances (Refer item 2/1/19);
- Virtual Private Networks (VPNs) evading porn-site firewall-blocks
- Science unethical and untheological; Theology unscientific;

- Plastics (and other rubbish) in the Oceans & food chain therein;
- Cross border conflicts and human rights breaches; and
- Protecting name-suppression orders (c.f., 17/12/18).

12/4/20, Jesus Torres speaking from Santiago, Chile. This was in an international television news service report received from its “Latin American Editor”. She interviewed a Chilean on the streets of Santiago while he lined up to get goods from a supermarket. We noted the name. Firstly, “Jesus” is of course derived from the Hebrew original Yeshua transliterated into Greek then European into “Jesus”. It reflects that the man has some sort of Christian or Biblical heritage. That is true for the nations of Tarshish which are now beginning to figure in world news as the end times of the Bible approach. “Tarshish”, along with Sheba and Dedan, will oppose the forthcoming first Gog-Magog invasion of Israel. The surname, “Torres”, is a similar corruption of the Hebrew original for the name of the maritime Lebanese city of ancient Tyre. The Tyrians and other sister cities explored the world for resources to bring them back to the Middle East where most people still lived by 1000 BC. Satan used them to rebuild his Babel project or regain the momentum therein. He is using these nations today to continue that project. He was the one who convinced Adam to ignore God and eat from the tree of knowledge for himself without God’s guidance. Now look where that got us.

12/4/20, “A real challenge keeping the EU together”. We have long seen the EU as a hopelessly cumbersome entity that had little hope of surviving in the medium term let alone the ‘Long Run’. However, one has long understood its true role in setting up a model of procedures for governance to get the World’s Ten Nation system of Government as the Antichrist comes to power.

12/4/20, “Levels of debt unsustainable unless written off”. Some countries will be able to issue bonds for a very long time at interest rates or ‘yields of far less than 1%, although still probably at a positive rate of interest. That means larger countries will be able to create credit and liquidity etc., for a long time, begging future generations albeit at very low interest rates or direct cost of the borrowing. It will be a different economic story if interest rates do climb back up even if they only go to 5-6%. There may be a plot afoot to get so many people to borrow heavily so that a big percentage of the world’s households, businesses and councils and governments become enslaved to debt. However, smaller and weaker countries will not be able to borrow much at all. Unless their debts are written off, there is no hope for them.

12/4/20, “Out of time and looking forward to the next crisis, it seems”. The previous two items (12/4/20, “A real challenge keeping the EU together” and “Levels of debt unsustainable unless written off”) were taken from an international news service’s regular programme looking at controversial issues and taking a slightly deeper look at the headline story. The compare only has about 25 minutes for this daily show. Especially from nations run by rabid incoherent Muslims such as Yemen and Iran, the guest commentators often ramble on. The compare has to cut them off at times. In this case three very capable commentators, economists or members of the Dismal Science, were on a ‘panel’ discussion about the economic fall-out of the Covid19 disaster, the “Wuhan Virus” or the CCV as one now likes to label it (China Colonizing Virus).

The 'next crisis' the compare euphemistically referred to is the ongoing economic and trade chaos engendered by these massively long lock-downs pervading the world's 200 or so economies. A week's lock-down is damaging enough. As the previous item shows, the long term debts will take a very long time to repay. The UK, according to one of the speakers, has only just finished paying off its debts from two World Wars it supposedly won. WWII ended 75 years ago. At least the UK honours its debts. "Proud to be British", one says a little tongue in cheek for one is also a citizen of the Kingdom of God that is to come when Jesus of Nazareth comes to rescue repentant Israel on the last three days of the Tribulation-Apocalypse.

Under one calculation we work with in our model, the Apocalypse is at least a dozen years away. That's only a model as we economists like to remind our readers. On another model, we forecast the result of the current series of problems might see a gradual return to the economies, political systems, and the scientific and technological capabilities of mid 17th Century Europe which possibly or roughly equates to 10th to 15th Century China or even Babylon as far back as 2000 BC. We would probably still be at a somewhat more advanced level than Rome was at the time of Christ. Rome's actual capabilities are often significantly exaggerated.

Indeed, in many ways, Rome fell significantly short of the achievements of the Glorious Age of Greece. The latter only occurred because in the 700's BC Tyrians (Dorians), Sidonians (Macedonians going into Thrace) and Jews (Ionians) migrated there in large numbers with their capital and expertise. They were fleeing the Assyrian (Iraqi) and Kurdish-Chaldean conquests of the Levant and Egypt etc., between 720-586 BC. Consequently, by gathering there in the main, they transformed the Aegean between 700-500 BC which is why ancient Greece flowered as it did between 600-500 BC. By the time Aristotle and Plato were rambling on, the Hellenistic system in Greece, which saw itself as the synthesis of all things good in Greece; and from inheritance from Tyre, Sidon, Byblos and Israel; had instead declined or fallen to a lower standard. The weaker Hellenistic era in Greece nevertheless retained achievements significantly above those of many places elsewhere in the world at that time (300 BC). Perhaps the most telling indictment of the Hellenes' inadequacies compared to the previous generations in Greece lay in their cosmology. Instead of accepting that the Earth revolved around the Sun as Aristarchus (probably of Jewish or Tyrian origin if not himself a refugee from either place) taught Greece in 500 BC, the Hellenes thought otherwise. Together with the Ptolemies, i.e., the Greeks ruling Egypt and Syria after Alexander; The 'Grecian' Cosmopolitan came to believe under Aristotle's influence that the Sun revolved around the world instead. Today, Aristotle stands as the father of modern scientists. That demonstrates why the IntelligentCIA is so impoverished in wisdom today. Of course by ignoring God, today's scientists and academics are only digging an ever-deepening hole for themselves and their acolytes.

But these models are conjectural of course. The Status Quo Economy or something close to it may be possible. Even if we have to eat less and end up looking like a Picture of Matchstick Men. As John Lennon and others sang, "They call me Bony Morony because I am as thin as a stick of macaroni". However, as this programme's three economists agreed, for the first time they were all agreed it's going to be very difficult getting back to the beginning of 2020.

13/4/20, "Are all masks created equal?" As the incidence of Covid19 widens there is rising demand for protective equipment especially for hospital staff. There is a rise in the number of medical professionals and other staff going down to the virus as they handle infected patients because they have inadequate supplies of “PPE” (Personal Protective Equipment). The virus appears to be quite long lasting in the air for up to twenty minutes. Especially in hospitals that means people can easily come down with the illnesses. Gloves and masks are the products in the most critical shortage.

However, our observation here is that the interviewer introducing a discussion on this matter on television opened with this line about masks being “created”. Only God can create. This is another illustration of the godlessness of these people. We make or manufacture masks and other things. We never create them. The closest we get is the God-given but much abused ability to procreate new children, a privilege given to animals as well. As for “equality”, every mask will be different even if it is just a matter of how much material is in each one. At an infinitesimal level, no mask is the same. The proper point about equality is that all men and women are sinners. We all need to repent and acknowledge these crises we continually face are the result of Adam’s disobedience and that each one of us equally is accounted or imputed as being the Adam who brought this mess to all of us. Yes, in God’s sight, all men and women are equal. Yes, God created our first mother and father. Our own parents procreated us by the means originally designed and created by the Creator. To say masks are created equally is pure godlessness, stupid and arrogant..

13/4/20, “Otherwise we are doomed”. A doctor warning us on the television programme quoted in the previous item. She said if countries do not cooperate to combat Covid19 like the way the Americans and their Dr Fauci controlled Ebola in Africa and even managed to develop a vaccine to fight it, then we are doomed. The implication is that China is not cooperating with the world regarding this problem. However, policy makers have foolishly allowed many production systems to be centralised for the world in just a few places. One example is the basic processor which is needed for computers appears to be mostly made in South Korea or Taiwan. That is incredible when these countries have neighbours like North Korea and the Chinese dictatorship bent on world economic conquest as once admitted by unofficial China Government spokesman Mr Victor Gow on the same TV channel.

But it does not matter what the machinations inside China are, the Bible tells us that Antichrist-666 who comes out of Rome will take control and his base will be Babylon (South Iraq and Persian Gulf region). Mainland Communist China may believe it can throw its weight around but it will fall like a domino to Antichrist who almost certainly is on the way. Then, praise God, Yeshua b’Nazareth returns and today’s and tomorrow’s nonsense comes to an end.

22/4/20, “Only thing worse than democracy is all the other doctrines”. What Sir Winston Churchill once said. The point arose when a caller on a radio talk-back programme reported that NZ’s director of Health was overseeing a system full of inefficiencies. The problems, many coming to the surface in the face of the Covid19 scare/pandemic are covered up in daily briefings. The NZ DG of Health easily bats off questions coming from a less than gifted, naive and inexperienced press corp, doing so in public with a calm manner and verbiage. He does it with the iron discipline so characteristic of the Roman ideal. There is no room for moral or ethical self-doubt about what he delivers and never betrays internal discomfort in his outward exterior.

The Journalists have no right or means of counter-criticism in the press conferences. This is illustrative, in the caller's opinion, of the 'democratic' system we have nowadays.

As a diabetic endeavouring to live without insulin, one is aware that different health jurisdictions around the world take different positions on what may or may not be a safe level of excessive sugars in the blood. NZ and UK adopt a range of "4-6". Australia takes a range of "4-8". Slovenia's medical officers, in regard to a person of the author's age, 66 in 2020, is not concerned about someone showing levels of "9-10". The UK-NZ jurisdictions effectively adopt a "Gold Standard" approach. And that is what is happening in the NZ health jurisdiction regarding the control or elimination or eradication of Covid19. Thus health administrators in NZ want to adopt measures all other countries deem simply too costly to achieve longer-term. The social, mental health and economic considerations, in the opinion of most countries, rule out being able to afford the luxury of elimination or eradication. The situation in NZ has become so irrational that the PM is reported as saying "eradication is not eradication". Instead it means taking such firm control that where a single case appears the system will move heaven and earth to isolate the individual and exhaustively test anyone or things that case meets, touches or speaks to. Thus the economy is to be totally restructured into a command economy format. The Government will have big equity stakes in nearly every business. It will become the totalitarian Chinese Government model.

3/5/20, "A deal with the Devil". A comment by a journalist reporting on the cocaine business in Colombia. It starts when a farmer brings coca seeds to his area, plants it, and makes more money than from good things because of the huge demand in the USA and elsewhere. But then the evils of the money with prostitution etc., come into the region. Then the drug gangs move in, make rules and in effect begin governing the region. Disagreements are settled with guns. The farmers can no longer call on the police to sort the mess out. The area or region permanently becomes a gang-land. Indeed it is a deal with the Devil and his son who will soon take over this world for about seven years. Jesus will return to destroy Antichrist-666 on the last day of the military campaign organized by Antichrist from the plains opposite the pass at the Hill (Har) at the Pass at Megiddo (Har-Megiddo - 'Armageddon'). Firstly Antichrist will drive out the inhabitants in Jerusalem and Judea. Then he will chase them into the fortification at Bozrah. That's where Israel will finally agree to call on Jesus of Nazareth. So the plight of the villages and farmlands of Colombia tells of another event that finally brings us to restoration with not only God but the planet too. Jesus will fulfill the text of Psalm 8:4

3/5/20, "A Divine madness". As one was composing the above item in real time as the journalist was being interviewed on the radio, he then told of a bizarre set of down-stream consequences of the Colombian drug trade in the upper reaches of the famous Magdalena River. The bodies of those who transgressed the drug gangs were dumped into the river. There were so many that people down stream then put them into burial plots that they then attended to each day and offered prayers to or for the dead bodies. The apparent transaction was that if these people tended the deceased's graves for them they would receive favours in return. Apparently one person used the burial date of someone in one of the graves he was tending as a number for a lottery and he won. The journalist described this and other instances and called it a "Divine Madness."

However, our interest here is that the Magdalena River enters the Atlantic at Cartagena which is the old name for Carthage the ancient city in Tunisia that re-established Tyre-

Tarshish's fortunes in one of those 'Phoenix rising out of the ashes' episodes. Another Cartagena lies on Spain's south-east coast showing that the heritage and echos of ancient Tyre's reach and hegemony still ring quite loudly today. You cannot miss them. But the Greco-Roman controlled mafia with its stranglehold over our museums and understanding of the 'Classics' continues to blind most to the realities of History (or His Story as opposed to theirs') and Prophecy.

This is madness but no more than what God foresaw when Adam ate from the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil. Now cocaine has the highest rate of return of any other product on Earth, the world-wide demand being so great. Only Middle East oil in our judgement gets any where close to cocaine's returns. But why the such high demand? Clearly the whole world is going so mad that an ever growing proportion of the population is resorting to drugs to block out of their minds or thinking the looming crises. But the worst crisis they are blocking out is the knowledge that their disbelief and mistrust of God means they spend eternity in a dark place where there is no light apart from perhaps a tiny speck in the vast distance which is all they see of the Eternal Universe of Light and Love in God's next universe. They will be stuck in that place eternally weeping and gnashing their teeth. That's for the lucky ones. Apparently, it gets worse for some others who did some of those most awful crimes against humanity.

20/5/20, "Peace and legislation or war and investigation". A quotation put up by US President Trump soon after he got into power. He may have said this beforehand on the campaign trail for the White House. One originally wrote it down on a scrap of paper at the time then retrieved the scrap in a pile of papers and inserted here for interest. Now that the world is fighting Covid19 with all sorts of rules and regulations, our existing mountain of rules, regulations, legislation almost seems worse than war. In fact it is a war that is bringing this all down on us. A war against a virus. As the scientists love to say, it is a silent and invisible enemy. Actually, when you get such a web of rules, regulations, etc. you indeed lose all freedoms. But that is the conundrum the world now lies in because of the sin of Adam in Eden. Fortunately, for those of us who believe, this will all be replaced by a perfect system of law with Israel's Messiah. He will rule and control everything from Jerusalem.

But a word of warning. The Antichrist-666 also knows about all this from his father, Satan. The "Anointed Cherub" (Satan, Ezekiel 28:14) does take the true scriptures seriously. They speak of him. His only begotten or 'chosen' son, the Antichrist-666, will attempt to counterfeit what Jesus of Nazareth is bringing in soon. Many will be seduced by Mr 666. Those of us who believe get raptured out before it gets critical. Amusingly, Mr "333", Immanuel Macron, the great god with us by translation and a little of word-play theatre, is already playing an above-the-parapet role in world affairs at the moment on behalf of the French State and former empire which has never quite shorn itself of. But just when Antichrist appears to solve all our problems and people praise him because they have reached what they think is "Peace and Safety" they will find then that (for seven years) "the destruction comes (from God's angels in the Apocalypse)". That was the warning from I Thessalonians 5:3. But it is unlikely anyone will take that seriously because no one does take the Bible seriously these days, apart from Satan.

20/5/20 Some Biblical names for the Antichrist-666. Since one had broached the subject in the previous item here are the names given in the Bible for or to the Antichrist, courtesy of Dr Arnold Fruchtenbaum in Footsteps of the Messiah, published by Ariel Ministries, USA:

- Genesis 3:15; The Seed of Satan.
- Daniel 7:8; The Little Horn.
- Daniel 8:23; The King of Fierce Countenance.
- Daniel 9:26; The Prince That Shall Come.
- Daniel 9:27; The Desolator.
- Daniel 11:36; The Wilful King.
- II Thessalonians 2:3; The Man of Sin.
- II Thessalonians 2:3; The Son of Perdition.
- II Thessalonians 2:8; The Lawless One (in part by bringing too much 'Law').
- I John 2:18 (c.f., 2:22); The Antichrist.
- Revelation 13:11 ff; The Beast (the one coming out of the Earth).

Note: The first reference to the Antichrist as "The Beast" actually comes earlier in Revelation 11:7. He is the second that appears in chapter 13, the first being the False Prophet who comes out of the "Sea" (Mediterranean) and who prepares the way for the Second who comes from 'The Land' (Italy-Rome?). The First Beast has fewer powers than the Second.

5/6/20, "The world is sliding towards anarchy". From Radio NZ's 'intro' to an interview of the former Australian Prime Minister who had warned the world it is sliding towards anarchy as the United States abandons its global leadership position in the Covid-19 crisis. Mr Kevin Rudd was making the comments in an episode of the RNZ podcast, After the Virus, looking at the politics of the pandemic and shifts in global power. He appeared alongside CNN international anchor Christianne Amanpour who singled out New Zealand as having a world leading response to the virus.

9/6/20, "The new sporting calendar". Something being enforced as world sports tournaments can no longer run in conventional ways with large crowds. There are many implications here for finances. The players want a live audience at the venue cheering them on and having a party but the TV companies are just as happy having people watch proceedings in their living rooms. Anyway, to prevent disease spread the world's calendar for these events will have to be changed with many events rescheduled. From a Biblical perspective, we are reminded of Daniel 7:25, "He (Antichrist) shall seek to change times and seasons ...". That is a reference to what Antichrist will do in the times when he takes control of the world. The rescheduling of world sporting events does not fulfill this verse but the comment can be seen as a harbinger of this passage in Daniel.

4/8/20, Ammonium Nitrate dump explodes; Port Beirut lying in dust. As this disaster hit the airwaves we were regaled with the sight of the grain silos almost buried in dust and standing there very forlorn and useless. "Beirut" literally means 'House of Tyre'. The episode reminds us of the ancient prophecy that God will "break down her towers" and "scrape her dust from her" (Ezekiel 26:4) which indeed was another image just like New York's Twin Towers' in 9/11, 2001. Although Ezekiel's prophecy was fulfilled in circa 600 BC when Nebuchadnezzar ruled the ruled, one again wonders if the original Hebrew was written in the future continuous or in other words "I will keep breaking down her towers" and "scraping her dust from her". That would of course beautifully fit with, some would say, the 'apocryphal' story of the 'Phoenix (Phoenicia, or e.g., Venice-Venetia) arising out of the ashes'. For indeed that has been the history of Tyre and her daughters (Tarshish). Nothing "apocryphal" about it at all. Every time one or another conqueror has defeated her, Tyre, then Carthage, Cartagena in Spain and Colombia where the city lies at the mouth of the Magdalena River (Migdol, Tower) then Britain kept on arising out of the ashes of defeat. Also we have the city of 'Sur' on Oman's coast reminding us of ancient Tyre's heritage. But that History has a future aspect to it in Prophecy. Are these events further reinforcing the fact that God's Plan for History is now moving very quickly to the apocalyptic denouement outlined in the Bible's prophecies?

6/8/20, Israeli heads Chilean rescue team in Beirut. This was an interesting aside from the explosion in Beirut two days ago. The man speaking, named "Emmanuel", was being reported on an international television news service. He clearly spoke excellent English and with exactly the accent a modern educated Israeli does. He did not spout especially "Chilean" as far as his English speech was concerned. Israel lies just down the road from Beirut so it would not be surprising some Israelis were brought in to help in such a crisis. It would be convenient, nevertheless, especially if he held a Chilean passport to declare himself that way. Officially, Israelis are not at all welcome in the Arab countries. Of course, many Lebanese do not like being described as 'Arabs'. Alternatively, the man may have been an Israeli Druze. They are allowed to travel across the borders as they always have done a bit like the Bedouin. Along with reports that Qatar is working through Israel to get humane aid to Palestinians in Gaza; and the Abrahamic Accord between Israel and the UAE; today, Washington DC announced that Serbia has agreed to re-locate its Embassy with Israel in Jerusalem making it about the third nation to do this along with the US and Costa Rica (apparently).

14/8/20, UAE and Israel sign the Abrahamic Accord". The two nations signed this peace accord with Israel promising to delay any new settlements on the West Bank 'for now'. A clear advance towards the First Gog-Magog invasion of Israel as the sheiks and kings of the Arabs, brothers with Jews from mutual descent from Abraham. These Arabs are probably the people known as 'Sheba and Dedan' in Ezekiel's prophecy and they clearly but feebly oppose Gog's army invading Israel just as Tarshish-NATO does. Just like Tarshish, Sheba and Dedan are helpless bystanders in the face of the hostile invasion force descending upon Israel's mountains. For that reason, with the state of armaments and structures of modern armies all over the world, the invasion force would appear to be more like a vast horde and rabble of people relatively lightly armed but so numerous that no conventional means are available to destroy them. To some extent we see such situations as North African countries like Nigeria try to defeat groups like Boko Haram or ISIS hence the description given in Ezekile 38:1 to 39:16.

14/8/20, "A road map toward a bilateral relationship". That is how the Emir of the UAE described the new accord with Israel brokered by US President Donald Trump and his son-in-law Jarrod Kushner. Probably, this "roadmap" will be yet another piece of paper that will eventually form part of a final document that Antichrist affirms to initiate a seven-year hiatus from his point of view toward a full and lasting peace with Israel and the neighbouring nations, indeed with the whole world Government. However, from God's perspective as he sees his former wife committing adultery with Satan's Son, that confirmation will be a green light to set His angels upon mankind for the Seven-year Apocalypse instead.

22/8/20, "The aliens among us". But they are not from outer space according to The Economist, 22-28 August 2020, in their leader for that week, "The Aliens Among us" and the main essay on the matter in "The Outsiders Inside". In fact the "outsiders" escaped from the inner space of female placentas at some stage in human and animal history. God placed RNA there to activate but just for the process of stitching together a new being from its male and female parents. That, however, was not the conclusion of the scientists The Economist was interviewing for the articles in that issue. Nor did The Economist make our point. We understood this from the Bible's record of Man's history here on Earth. Reading between the lines of these articles, the RNA that stitches together a new animal or plant from its parent DNA genes somehow escaped its proper environment and got into the Earth's biosphere. How that happened we are not quite sure but it did. Instead, the scientists and The Economist say the viruses in the oceans were part of the earliest phases of the evolution of species. They are inanimate things according to the articles but at times they can appear to be somehow an intermediary between life and something inanimate. Obviously it would appear that way but they are misreading things in the reverse. The processes they see in the now polluted environment were not evolutionary but chaotic, random and devolutionary. They became that way because of Man's sin.

As we know from the science, the RNA is in the placentas of females to stitch together a new animal in the womb of a female where the two parents' DNA are merged into a new identity: animal or human. In that process it may be that the RNA effectively has been programmed to temporarily look like a DNA or double helix of RNA ("mRNA") but that is merely part of God's pre-designed pre-programming. Once a new being is formed and born, that RNA deactivates and can never become DNA unless some other designer intervenes to make it do that as our scientists do in gene laboratories. Outside in the wider environment, if that RNA gets there, it may attack DNA proteins in animals and plants instead of forming new living individuals of the species a particular being is part of: cat; canine; fish; insect or human. Furthermore, perhaps scientists also did things like this before the flood. That is why God destroyed what Man and the angels (with the women) were doing, by that Great Flood.

Once the RNA has completed its task at birth it goes back, or should go back, into the soil for burial and so that it cannot escape into the world of proteins based on DNA and there damage the DNA of any species. Bacteria in soil are presumably programmed to sanitize it and eradicate any viruses. However, as a result of 'The Fall', viruses have proliferated to such an extent the environment is struggling to defend itself from them. Perhaps that is the greatest crisis facing us and brings to our attention the Lord's words that if He were not to intervene, "No flesh would survive". The world might then just become a battle ground for viruses and bacteria with viruses the likely eventual winner.

Unfortunately, somehow that has happened and we have a flood of viruses on the run creating havoc. We believe we have identified the following causes of this proliferation:

(1) Through illicit sexual intercourse including via bestiality;

(2) At the time when fallen angels mated with human women or even with reptiles when they sired dinosaurs; or

(3) Genetic engineering experiments either in the days before Noah when man was rapidly progressing toward developing a new tree of knowledge which we are now getting close to doing or in more recent times.

3/9/20, "Ad-Apocalypse". A young woman's comment to me when discussing how I can access Internet without the phased-out Internet Explorer.

4/9/20, 10th anniversary 4/9/10 and 22/2/11 Canterbury quakes. And of course in March 2019, 50 Muslims were murdered by a lone mad gunman in Christchurch. Still many householders have been left without any recovery of the damage they faced because of arguments about insurance responsibilities. There are ongoing arguments about reconstruction priorities. Overall, it is not a good scene and many suspect further rumbles not from quakes so much as from the ongoing high-level Inquiry into precisely what happened in the run-up to the shooting such as how the gunman got his licence.

8/9/20, "Wherever humans act they pollute". Comment on a television programme about the "Dark Side of Green Energy". We say this supports the prophecy of Isaiah 24:5 but we reiterate all this is just what God predicted would happen if Adam would not obey that command to leave the Tree of Knowledge alone.

8/9/20, "Rare metals and earths are vital for electric vehicles". This is another dark side of 'Green Energy'. But this demand will require us to dig up a lot more earth than we currently do for things like copper which is relatively abundant compared with the more elaborate heavy metals they need for the modern hi-tech Green Energy. When one was a boy we learned that the Moon would be the place these minerals would come from. Presumably they were also thinking of other planets or asteroids to provide us with these 'necessities'. If we have to chop up the earth for these things we obviously destroy too many habitats for animals and plants. And the Greenies want to save those things. So there is an inherent contradiction in their premises.

Even more interesting is the question of the origin of these rare metals and earths. Dr Velikovsky indirectly raised this issue with his words in Worlds in Collision. He wrote;

"The problem of the origin of the moon can be regarded as disturbing to the tidal theory. Being smaller than the Earth, the Moon completed earlier the process of cooling and shrinking, and the lunar volcanoes had already ceased to be active. It is calculated that the Moon possesses a lighter specific weight than the Earth. It is assumed that the Moon was produced from the superficial layers of the Earth's body, which are rich in light silicon, whereas the core of the Earth, the main portion of its body, is made of heavy metals, particularly iron. But this assumption postulates the origin of the Moon as not simultaneous with the origin of the Earth; the Earth, being formed out of a mass ejected from the Sun, had to undergo a process of levelling, which placed the heavy metals in the core and silicon at the periphery before the Moon parted from the Earth by a new tidal distortion. This would mean two consecutive tidal distortions in a system where the chance of even one is held extremely rare. If the passing of one star near another happens (page 24) among one hundred million stars once in five billion years, two occurrences like this for one and the same star seem incredible. Therefore, as no better explanation is available, the satellites are supposed to have been torn from the planets by the Sun's attraction on their first perihelion passage, when, sweeping along on stretched orbits, the planets came close to the Sun".

"The planet Earth has a stony shell - the Lithosphere; it consists of igneous rock, like granite and basalt, with sedimentary rock on top. The igneous rock is the original crust of the Earth, sedimentary rock is deposited by water. The inner composition of the Earth is not known ... seismic studies suggest .. the shell of the Earth is over 2000 miles thick ... the Theory of Isostasy suggests 60 miles thick. The presence of iron in the shell or the migration of heavy metals from the core to the shell has not been sufficiently explained. For these metals to have left the core, they must have been ejected by explosions, and in order to remain spread through the crust, the explosions must have been followed immediately by cooling (emphasis added).

If, in the beginning, the planet was a hot conglomeration of elements, as the nebular and tidal theories (*) assume, then the iron of the globe should have become oxidized and combined with all available oxygen. But for some unbeknown reason this did not take place; thus the presence of oxygen in the terrestrial atmosphere is unexplained. The water of the oceans contains a large amount of sodium chloride, common salt. Sodium might have come from the rocks eroded by rain; but rocks are poor in chlorine and the proportion of sodium and chlorine in sea water calls for fifty times more chlorine in the igneous rock than it actually contains".

[(*) The theories that either a tidal series of forces formed the planets and moons or a passing star (two of them at different times) dragged material off our sun to form them].

One has reproduced Dr Velikovsky's points here, originally composed in the mid 1940's, because they still reflect the current state of knowledge regarding the origins of the universe, solar system and this planet and its very strategic satellite the Moon. How did all this really come into place? The Theory of Evolution which Velikovsky still believed in, unbelievably, but which he amended with his theories of catastrophic change, the catastrophes certainly being a reality, fails to explain the origin of rare earths. In fact, the Bible explains in Ezekiel 28:13 where in the original universe the Earth was prepared as a special residence also named "Eden" for Satan and angels to enjoy. It was composed of many different types of precious stones such as emeralds and sapphires but also gold and presumably by implication other metals as well. These created higher elements; n.b., we are composed of the lowest elements such as carbon, hydrogen (the smallest element or gas); apparently enabled Satan to himself be creative. In part, his "workmanship involved composing music ["the workmanship of thy tabrets (timbrel or tambourine) and pipes"]. Many people today also like to be 'creative' with poetry, music or art and sculpture. It's a trap of sorts because the desire also leads one to focus less and less on The Creator and instead worship the creation, or creatures (Romans 1:25).

So now we are having to dig up at the gross expense of the environment masses of rare earths containing the elements that Satan used when he was on Earth. All this nonsense is merely proving God's point about the wickedness of fallen angels and man. We are coming back full circle to both Adam's and Satan's gardens of "Eden". God loved the man so much that His Son Jesus of Nazareth paid for us the price of all this sin so that we may be reconciled to God for the duration of the Eternal Age planned for us. That begins with the Messianic Kingdom for a millennium then the new Universe after this one is destroyed at the end of the Millennial Messianic Kingdom.

8/9/20, "Batteries compose half the weight of electric vehicles". In an amusing footnote here, it is also therefore a lot harder to jack up a car to change a tyre. That might get interesting in future. Just another complication, nevertheless.

8/9/20, "Vehicle batteries heavy users of rare earths and metals". Another comment on the same programme made by a different commentator.

8/9/20, "We need more rare metals". But that is clearly going to pollute this planet because the Moon simply does not have any of these precious things as we discussed from Dr Velikovsky's observations and from what we learn about the Creation in the Bible. The fact that our planet has these rare earths is because God originally created them to construct the Earth for the reasons explained in Ezekiel 28:12ff. Firstly, in God's Plan, they would be used for Satan and perhaps other angels to themselves be creative which of course any creature (angel or man) desires to do and God indeed permits that. However, as one noted previously there is also the inherent temptation to then forget the creator because one becomes so consumed with one's own 'creativity'. However, rare earths are vital for all sorts of communications and electronic production systems. So as mankind descends ever closer to his oblivion, he has to wreck his environment to meet the demands of society for batteries, smart phones etc. So the implications of the Falls of both Satan and Adam in their separate gardens of Eden on this same planet are bringing all things to the conclusion prophesied by Israel's prophets (Armageddon and Apocalypse).

8/9/20, "Green energy is neither, clean, healthy nor environmental". Thus via 'Green Energy' we are actually going to do more damage than if we stick with our current portfolio of energy production systems. What we have now is bad enough but what's down the track appears to be even worse. Either way, God is going to rescue us and only God can because ever since Adam disobeyed mankind has effectively been locked into this dilemma. Our generation is the first to have been able to at last understand the long-run implication of Adam's disobedience and Satan's before that. The Bible explains all this to the reader who comes to it with the Holy Spirit to guide him (or her). So this is all part of the deception that causes mankind to descend into the abyss of the Apocalypse. Before we can do too much more damage, God will intervene. His angels will demonstrate just how badly one can damage the environment which man is going to do if he is allowed to carry on. God never desired to do this but He will demonstrate His power to a rebellious world during the Apocalypse. His primary target is Israel to get his former wife to repent and turn to Him as Israel will (Romans 11:26).

The Apocalypse will give the Earth's inhabitants a glimpse of what God had to do to execute His Plan for Mankind's six millennia of the Fall when He allowed the planets to inflict damage on the Earth from the Flood, through the Tower of Babel, the plagues of Egypt, the Day the Sun and Moon stood still, the movements of the axes in the reigns of kings Ahaz and Hezekiah etc. The three hours between midday and 3 pm when the Earth went dark while Jesus propitiated God's anger for us on The Cross may have been the status of the universe after Satan fell. Only when the Spirit of God came to hover over the face of the Earth did light return to the universe which certainly made the angels stand up and notice. When God put a man on the Earth and began conversing with Adam, Satan's jealousy flared. Enraged he went into Adam's Eden to tempt the man into falling. Adam fell but in God's Plan in that scenario Jesus had already volunteered (Psalm 40:7-8, Hebrews 10:7) to come and redeem to man with His own Life as a Sacrifice. And that is what happened and anyone who agrees this is the case and accepts God's Redemption Plan; a sub-plan in the context of the overall scheme; then gets to be a part of the glorious eternity. Otherwise, it's the other place of darkness etc.

8/9/20, "Getting harder to heat or move around without rare metals". Mankind is re-discovering the many reasons for these rare earths and the miraculous things they appear to enable man to do. However, as the world moves ever more into Hi-tech it will need more and more of these metals from the Earth. Again, it simply reinforces the fact that we have to dig up this planet's biosphere to get these things. As Dr Velikovsky says, they are spread all through the crust but vast amounts of useless earth has to be overturned to get small amounts of the rare metals. We cannot get them from anywhere else because they probably cannot be found anywhere else because God specially created them for use just here on Earth (for Satan then later, Man) fore-knowing and prophesying that Man would get cornered into destroying the very environment he lives in. That suits Satan who wants the man destroyed. But God will not let that happen and Jesus has ensured it will not.

8/9/20, "Oil dependence to be replaced by rare metals dependence". One agrees but is undesirable but also inevitable because Adam got us into this mess and Satan is having a field day driving us toward the oblivion he desires for us. Whether we stick with oil and coal which actually make considerably less damage to the Earth's crust on which the forests, plants and animals depend, or go Green, the Earth is going to suffer.

8/9/20, "Pollution the price to pay for Green Energy". It is also the price we pay with oil and coal but arguably rare earth dependence is going to exacerbate environmental damage, certainly at current population levels with the concomitant demand for products and services. In circa 700 BC, Isaiah 24:5 said this would be the case.

8/9/20, "Monstrous demand for copper to reticulate green energy". Although at least copper appears to be a little more prolifically concentrated than some of these rare earths. Even before the so-called 'Green Revolution' man's processes have been damaging to the environment. Had Adam obeyed, we would all have lived in a harmony with our Garden of Eden. But that was not the outcome. Instead Adam disobeyed so what we have been witnesses of over the last six millennia is what has subsequently happened instead. Whatever happened after God ejected Man from Eden, Adam's descendants would have wanted to improve life and make it easier or even more like what it could have been in Eden. Instead the result of sin imputed and inherited by us all has led to the mess we now have and it is only getting worse.

8/9/20, "The rush for rare metals will destroy the planet". Although if the world's population and concomitant increasing demand for goods and services continues to grow the status quo rush will do likewise.

8/9/20, "Green energy waste as bad as nuclear". The main point here apparently concerns the problem with recycling worn out batteries, especially car batteries, which is presumably already a problem. It seems this problem will get much worse. But the overall problems of pollution remain.

8/9/20, "We need to find a new way of living to reduce Earth damage". We cannot keep growing the world economy and extract ever growing volumes of raw materials to consume more and more energy and the consequential extraction of resources. However, we cannot get back into Eden for God has ensured that. Had successive regimes ruling this world in various parts of it be that China, Africa (Egypt), Latin America (Aztecs, Incas, Mayans etc) or, latterly, Europe, perhaps we could have lived in a better environmental harmony. In some places around the world History has seen some cases of such lifestyles. The Amish in the USA perhaps give us a glimpse of what could be possible. However, their system depends on halting any advances on technology and science yet they are using considerably more than some of the simplest subsistence-lifestyle cultures in some other parts of the world.

At times, societies around the world have deliberately rejected scientific and technological advance because they understood it is a treadmill one cannot escape once it really gets going faster or even accelerates. Such philosophical approaches lie behind the attempts by various "indigenous" movements to 'halt progress'. Technically they have a point but they are a minority. A majority of the world's population even if badly educated and brainwashed effectively over-rules the wishes of the indigenous movements scattered across the remote and under-populated regions of the globe. The Ambassador for Christ realises that the two competing world-views have been with us ever since Adam's children began debating these issues. From the first generation Adam and Eve sired, their sons and daughters also were compelled to investigate using the world's resources to ease or improve life and do the necessary research to get there. Some at those times may also have felt it was better to wait outside the Garden of Eden, make do with whatever one had, and focus on future redemption through God's Promised Deliverer of Genesis 3:15. Those early generations of mankind in that first millennium after the fall of Adam had to consider and debate such issues for much the same reasons we have to consider in balancing these competing demands and interests. Obviously, only the Creator for whom we are ambassadors can resolve the dilemmas.

12/10/20, Epistemic superiority and "Manterruption". The United Nations issued this new word recently (i.e., manterruption or perhaps man-terruption). It means that men have the belief they have a superior right to interrupt or 'over-talk' a woman when she is speaking. Technically it's rude to do that at anytime with anyone. Apparently the UN Women's department has come up with this word and "mansplaining" to go with it. For us, this is yet another reminder of the prophecy in Genesis 3:16 where God told the woman after she had consumed knowledge from the Tree of Knowledge that "thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee". But the meaning of the Hebrew suggests that one day she would strive to overcome this 'restraint'. Modern genetics also indicates the male chromosome is weakening more rapidly than the female. As more women rise to key positions around the world, there will be a more supportive college for Satan's son to deceive into following and completing his father's plan now operating in the world. However, God's Plan for the world and this universe will prevail. Overall, this is just yet another indicator the Bible's prophecies for the Last Days are rapidly maturing and fulfilling as the world plunges towards Apocalypse and Armageddon as per the Bible's meaning of those words.

29/10/20, "Politics corrupting science" (or science corrupting politics?) This was a comment from a discussion trying to get to the bottom line of the Covid situation in the USA. One speaker noted 80% of those who had died in USA were more than 65 years old. Earlier from another source we heard the "average" age of those who had died in the USA was 78. Five deaths in NZ out of twenty five in total never tested positive for Covid yet were declared to have died from it and not from the other ailments those five people actually had. A UK motorcyclist who drove to get a test done and came out positive was killed on his bike yet the coroner registered him as a Covid victim. President Trump, Mr Bolsonaro in Brazil, Boris Johnson, Princes Charles and William are among world leaders who got the virus, quite nastily in Johnson's case, but who also recovered quite quickly as well. Mr Trump's wife and son came down with it and survived. In NZ's quarantine system a steady stream of people returning to NZ from abroad register as Covid positive, spend a couple of weeks in quarantine and recover without even going into hospital. The disease is not such a fearsome killer.

The speakers on this television programme were angry with politicians playing loose with scientific advice or even ignoring it. However, our view is that the scientists' suppression of Dr Velikovsky's work, their evolutionism, their lies about the formation of the Moon which they must now realise was placed where it is when God put it there six millennia ago, and other things, have now forced them to manipulate politics in order to sustain their myths in scientism. Regarding the Moon, on which last week they found water encased in tiny silicon (glass) coatings, it however has none of the elements that abound on Earth. The Moon 'water' seems to be of a different type to the H<sup>2</sup>O (both salty or fresh) here on Earth. Yet they claim the Moon "evolved" from the same material the Earth did. We know the Earth's wealth of rare metals and many other elements numbering well over a hundred ("The Periodic Table") shows that to make the Moon God has simply taken a large body of reflective silicon so that it could give the dark side of the globe each night some reflected sunlight for the night sky. The Moon also regulates our tidal systems which intricately support a range of ecosystems from shellfish to female menstrual cycles.

29/10/20, "If you tolerate this your children will be next". Words from a song playing over a speaker as I sat drinking a coffee at a café on the local foreshore park. One could apply this to Evolution. They have been brainwashing everyone with this theory and now the world is terrified by viruses such as Covid19 because the scientists cannot let anyone disbelieve Evolution and tell them what really lies behind the 'virus' phenomenon. Our understanding of the origin of life from the Bible enables us to understand that part of the dilemma of man now is that RNA or viruses has escaped its proper role in forming new humans inside female wombs and is now escaped into the outside world where they destroy humans or animals depending on the actual version of the RNA that has either escaped or adapted from an earlier escapee. Quite often, viruses make little impact because immune systems silently and unobtrusively deal with them, and throw out the dead or inanimate virus into the bloodstream as antibodies.

10/11/20, "Turkey has changed the balance of power in the South Caucasus". A reporter based in "neighbouring Tbilisi in Georgia" (Tbilisi may be the Tubal of Ezekiel 38:2) commenting on today's news that the 'Azeris' who have taken control of Shusha in the Armenian enclave inside Azerbaijan are planning another ethnic cleansing. He said Turkey has been openly assisting the Azeris while no one has been coming to the aid of the Armenians there, not even Russia. Of course if Turkey, or perhaps its leader, is going to be the "Gog" who will lead the invasion of Israel in Ezekiel 38:1 to 39:16 then with the growing crisis in Tigré (Ethiopia) threatening to upset the entire "horn of Africa" and the ongoing problems in Libya and Syria, Turkey's challenge to the Greeks over undersea resources in the Eastern Mediterranean, and many other things, the fulfillment of Ezekiel's prophecy looks even closer.

What is interesting is how Russia is going to react. But if Gog is indeed Russia's overlord and overlord of Tubal-Tibisi and Meshech-Moscow as well as Rosh-Russia then Russia will have little option but to leave the Armenians in "Ngorno-Karabach and in "landlocked" Armenia on Russia's southern border all on their own. If so, the Armenians definitely are in deep trouble as the "second-last Bastion" of 'Christianity' in "The South Caucasus or South Gogasia, or indeed anywhere in the Caucasus apart from the Georgian variant of Christendom's mainly anti-Semitic religions. Kazakhstan or the North or Cis-caucasus or Cis-North-Gogasia will also no doubt support its Muslim and Turkic friends in the region.

10/11/20, "The bedrock of Science", US President-Elect Joe Biden. Oh how wrong he is. Science is so corrupt now that it is no stronger than some feet of clay with bits of admittedly solid iron which is sometimes even stronger than bedrock. But that science is the sort of stuff this practitioner is producing not the quacks inside the halls of Academia. Those halls do have some iron nuggets in some of their 'departments' but they normally are not able to connect with each other to strengthen or coordinate their responses to the crises we have now in these "days of Noah and Lot". Furthermore we appear to be on the precipice of the Apocalypse where God's angels will deliver a whole lot more problems on this godless and rebellious world.

Here it would be useful to reproduce the following from a preface writer to Arthur Koestler's Sleepwalkers: "Koestler's target is the belief that science, uniquely among human activities, is quintessentially rational. It is the belief in the unique rationality of science that is truly irrational ... (a preaching of the) faith that science can deliver mankind from immemorial evils of ignorance and oppression. This is the loudly proclaimed creed of Daniel Dennett and Richard Dawkins; if only we can apply scientific method to our problems, the world can be immeasurably improved: science is not just a tool that enables us to get a grip in the world .... Alongside a pervasive reverence for science, there has been a powerful resurgence of religious fundamentalism. Hundreds of millions of people have rejected the ruling scientific world-view in which the universe is without purpose and the human animal an insignificant accident in the scheme of things". As one has noted, there is still some good science around, here and there, but politics and commerce have mostly taken over and changed the direction science must go. The concept of "foresight" says that we can do anything we desire to achieve. It is only a matter of resource allocation that determines what we actually do because we cannot do all the things we want to at the same time. Therefore, some objectives must take place later on in the pipeline of objectives. For example, the science of the carbon and nitrogen cycles are being subverted in order to electrify all energy production and consumption probably to disable the Middle East's power through its control of its oilfields. But as previous items show we may instead be burdening ourselves with even more environmental degradation than is already the case with oil and coal powered energy use.

26/11/20, "Long ago our experience of smart phones was designed". That was the view of a presenter doing a programme on TV about algorithms and their influence on the entire computing system especially in regard to the addictive powers of smart phones. As the next item explains, there was someone else really behind what Professor Skinner was doing in the 1940's and whose research effectively led to so many people being addicted to smart phones and almost continuously surfing many areas of the Internet and doing so via "The @ sign".

26/11/20, "Two Billion Skinner Boxes". On the same programme about algorithms and smart phones, one commentator actually described the smart phone as a "Skinner Box" because their programmes were designed with the research of B.F. Skinner sometimes called the father of behavioural science. In view of the claims here, Skinner probably can claim such status. However, we know who the real father of these things is. That is Satan who six millennia ago enticed Adam to eat from the touch-tronic Tree of Knowledge. We now think we have the evidence we need to understand what that tree really was, i.e., a computer God had placed in the Garden of Eden to test whether the man (Adam) would be obedient to His command not to touch or eat from it.

That 'test' was equivalent in many ways to that Satan had to face in resisting the urge to overthrow God long before man came on the scene. But Israel faced a parallel hurdle in AD 30 when it came to accepting or rejecting Jesus' Messiahship which officially and Biblically was what that 'generation' of Israel had been trained to do or prepared for. Now, churches are supposed to be warning the world of the imminence of the Antichrist and the Rapture as the world plunges toward Apocalypse. But warnings of 'apocalypse' are only coming from non-church sources instead. However, those calls are made on the basis that we must change everything to avoid all the various types of 'apocalypse' each faction or interest group wishes to push. Those groups simply use the threat of 'apocalypse' to pursue their own selfish interests.

However, after Adam's failure to obey, God excommunicated him and sent him packing outside the Garden so that Adam could no longer access either the Tree of Knowledge or the Tree of Life which Adam was allowed "eat" from. That is why Adam and his descendants were thenceforth condemned to death because we no longer have access to that tree of life. We do have access to eternal life in a glorified resurrected body if we accept Jesus of Nazareth came to be God with us ("Immanuel") and paid the penalty for Adam's offence toward God. That offence is imputed to all Adam's descendants but that also is true of Jesus' redeeming debt-payment on the Cross on behalf of all men and women who believe. Yes, by one man, or each one of us by imputation, chaos has descended but equally by One Man of God who is God, the Son of God, we are saved for the eternal future from that chaos. Meanwhile we suffer from it like everyone else.

Anyway, after his expulsion from the Garden of Eden, Adam had to explain what it was in the garden that he ate from when his descendants asked, "Grandad, what did you do to make God so angry with us?" Adam tried for 930 years to explain what he did and with what. He of course tried to explain what the Tree of Knowledge looked like or what it actually was. In the end he seems to have decided to simply call it the “Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil”. However, it is only now that we have been able to read the original Hebrew and decipher from the written information that Adam was indeed confronted by Satan and a computer. The “father of lies”, as Jesus described Satan, firstly enticed Eve via mesmerism then Adam through outright disobedience which meant all this trouble was the man’s fault not the woman’s. Ever since then, man has been trying to get back to a tree of knowledge that resembled that which God placed in Eden’s garden. So the “design” plan to get everyone addicted to smart phones goes a long way further back than Professor Skinner in the 1940’s or thereabout.

29/11/20, Spain intercepts drug ship off coast at Cartagena. This is a city on the south-east coast of Spain on the Mediterranean Sea, south of Alicante. Named after ancient Carthage in Tunisia, we are most interested to hear there is yet another city of this name, the other attracting our interest being Cartagena near the mouth of the Magdalena River on Colombia’s Atlantic coast. All this is just another echo of the pre-Roman Tyrian hegemony that ruled the Western hemisphere for centuries. The history of that and its prophetic implications is becoming an ever-growing factor in explaining what is happening in the world in these last days.

29/11/20, The Eye of Providence. Apparently, this is the official term for the eye in the block of stone that sits atop the pyramid on the US dollar bill. Surrounding the pyramid are the words about establishing a “new world order”. This came up on an international television programme’s report on the dominance of algorithms and smart phones in bringing about such a regime. Most people refer to the symbol as ‘the evil eye’. No matter what people name it, the reality is that ancient Babylon continues to exert control over the world’s nations and kingdoms. Nowadays, Babylon is ostensibly over-run with Arabs, Iranians, Americans, French, British, Turks et al. However, Satan’s control over all peoples, since Adam consigned us to this fate, means that effectively he is in control until Christ returns. “The Eye of Providence” is Satan’s eye carefully ensuring all nations adhere to his policies. Soon, according to Biblical prophecy, when his son the Antichrist-666 emerges, the nations will be forced to join in on the attack on Israel to destroy the Jewish nation before it calls on Messiah to save Israel.

30/11/20, Adventure tourism under the microscope in NZ (Science too). Nearly a year after an explosion on NZ’s island volcano (White Island) just off the coast of a major city (Tauranga), refer 11/12/19, “Mother Nature has spoken”, a Government department is bringing in some prosecutions against some organisations and tourism operators. One government science agency specializing in seismology and geology had rated the island at a level 2 alert. However, it had withdrawn its own staff a week or so earlier because that level was at a slightly higher, or too high, internal risk status for its risk profile. It had to consider its public servants whereas the tour ‘private sector’ operators appeared to be under a less restrictive risk profile which effectively permitted tour operators to carry on visiting the island. But the department did not move to stop the tourist operators, while the level 2 alert remained, from doing more trips over there. On this occasion, a cruise ship company contracted with those operators to conduct some tours for some of its passengers on a ship that was calling into Port Tauranga. Some of the passengers involved, e.g., two women who died there, were on one of their “adventure tours”. The woman and her daughter from Australia had been looking forward to the trip for a long time and did that sort of thing whenever they could. They were incinerated.

Unfortunately, that incident came on top of some other disasters that had caused considerable controversy in NZ in recent times. About 40 years ago a national airline lost a plane full of passengers on Mt Erebus in Antarctica. It crashed onto the mountain's slopes in a 'White Out' that obscured non-radar vision. The pilot's flight plan coordinates had been changed or altered on the eve of departure. But when a gung-ho type guide and adventurer on board convinced the captain to fly lower because the white-out was obscuring the passengers' vision, he complied. However, the pilot sincerely believed the coordinates he had been studying but which were then altered without informing him, had the plane flying further away from the peak and not directly over the peak. At the speed he was flying the radar alert to pull up came far too late to avoid crashing. However, and this was never truly resolved because the data involved "allegedly" but probably almost certainly went missing. The altered coordinates done in the office back in NZ but seemingly or apparently un-reported to the pilot effectively meant he had set the plane on a course to plunge into the mountain-side by flying at a lower altitude that would have missed directly hitting the mountain near its peak. He thought he was flying across the mountain toward its base not its peak. Of course the "white-out" obscured his vision as well. So everyone on board died.

In an Inquiry, a senior Judge described the following cover-up to obscure precisely what had really happened as "an orchestrated litany of lies". This became known as "The Erebus Disaster". In the following decade, the 1990's, several students on a nature walk in a Department of Conservation (DoC) reserve went aboard a viewing platform. But it collapsed under the weight of the students who were killed as they fell into the ravine below. In an Inquiry, it turned out the platform had been constructed by DoC employees who had not sought any engineering advice and used nails when bolts should have been used. In another cavalier fashion, DoC failed to seek proper advice. At the same time, one was doing a survey for NZ's Chief Scientist looking at potential failures in government departments seeking peer review of the advice they were presenting to Cabinet in official papers. DoC was the worst performer in this regard and that became even clearer or more evident with this fiasco at cave Creek. The policy manager told the author that it was withholding advice that most of NZ's towns and cities on the coast were on unstable land. He used the fact that a former British Chief Scientist had suppressed evidence his students uncovered that his theories about apes were wrong so that had justified this policy analyst's department from seeking the Chief Scientist's advice on scientific information he was presenting to Cabinet even though the Cabinet's own manual required him to do so.

In 2010, about twenty miners were killed in an explosion in a coal mine at Pike River. There was no attempt to rescue them because the local policeman took control and prevented anyone attempting to rescue the miners on the grounds that it was unsafe to do so. On White Island last year, some helicopter operators did fly over to rescue some people while the government authorities would not go over. In that case it seems some of those operators may be involved in the court case or a later case because they breached some safety protocols even though they saved lives. One helicopter operator did not even have any clients on the island that day. Yet when he then took off to rescue the victims, "Worksafe" NZ, a government department, went into his office, found some safety manuals were not quite up to date and proceeded to include him as a defendant in the court case to investigate wrong doing. It is bureaucracy run wild. The owners and managers of the Pike River coal mining disaster were never brought to court partly because some had gone abroad to escape legal responsibilities. Many issues in that disaster are being investigated but the scientists' concern with environmental issues forced the company to avoid safer open strip mining and embark on using dangerous tunnels to extract the very valuable coal.

Then in 2011, Christchurch experienced its second major earthquake in just a few months the earlier one being in 2010. But a large building collapsed in 2011 killing quite a lot of students in addition to others who predictably were killed in accidents elsewhere in the city. However, it appeared the building's designers and architects had failed to design a structure capable of surviving a quake. Unfortunately, a construction manager who had faked his credentials escaped NZ to avoid a court case. That muddied the situation. However, it is also true that earthquake science being what it is cannot predict how all the energy forces that might be generated by the quake mechanisms actually hit any particular site with that building's unique design features nor predict the directions those energy forces will come from. Thus Christchurch's CCTV building could have been the victim of a unique and quite unpredictable force. No matter how well designed it was and no matter how well built, engineers with fake credentials notwithstanding, in the final analysis no one can be held accountable for what in effect was a vis major which is a legal term in NZ for something that no one can be held responsible for. Other people use the term 'Act of God' which is quite unfair to our Creator for reasons we explain elsewhere. These things are 'vis major'.

However, stepping back, we can point to the scientists who had failed to realise Christchurch is sitting next to three volcanos on its Banks Peninsula. That decision goes back a long way and the failure to notice that between the voyages of the Portuguese, Dutch and English, who had charted NZ's waters around Christchurch between 1400 and 1750, Banks Peninsula had been an island. It only became a peninsula because of some massive earthquake between those voyages. But the mariners did not realise that what they thought was an island had become a peninsula. England's Cook was the last to draw Banks Peninsula as an island in 1769 but he may simply have taken Tasman's word (1649) for it and not bothered to do any closer inspection. So the error is known as "Cook's Folly". Nevertheless, the Royal Society of the UK (i.e., 'scientists') failed to advise the New Zealand Company that there may be serious volcanic risks in building a city there. Certainly they should not have been building homes on the many swamps around there. It's the same for Wellington although they experienced a big quake in the late 19th Century. Afterward, Wellington's city authorities and the Government have ensured that adequate building standards were taken to secure the city from quakes that so far have worked quite well. Anyway, everyone here is aware of the risks. Auckland was never supposed to be a big city by the New Zealand Company so there was little thought given to the fact that it sits on about forty volcanos which according to one seminar on the matter a few years ago are more likely to explode than Wellington is likely to get a major destructive earthquake which would probably have to be at least 7.5 on the Richter scale.

Then in March 2019, about fifty Muslims were slaughtered by a lone gunman who came from Australia, fraudulently, in effect, obtained a gun licence then guns and ammunition to suddenly descend on a Christchurch mosque and do the terrible deed. The NZ Police responsible for issuing gun licences failed, badly and sloppily, to do the proper vetting. They failed to ascertain the referees used by the applicant did not even know the applicant except via some emails. Another Inquiry ensued and it is due to release its report next week.

In all these cases, science, engineering and experts have failed to prevent disasters. Some things they cannot prevent in our fallen world. But when Presidents (Biden) talk about the “Bedrock of Science” and an official prosecuting someone is accusing the defendant of going against “science” then we are in trouble. It is high time the world re-evaluates the theories that underpin the so-called “bedrock of science”. We really need to throw out the Theory of Evolution that believes viruses in the ocean helped placentas to evolve so that DNA could be re-stitched into a new DNA being whether animal or human. The truth is that God had designed the whole environment in eons past for Satan and his angels and subsequently re-formatted the Earth after Satan’s fall required God to destroy (judge, 4.5 billion BC?) what had originally been created here. Thus, later, God created the environment and biosphere we have on Earth right now. That was just 6000 years ago not the earlier ‘mineral-only’ environment perhaps 15 billion years ago. Somehow; one is not yet sure quite how but perhaps via illicit sexual intercourse of various sorts; viruses, which are loose-cannon RNA, escaped their ‘placenta’ environment. God had created placentas just for the purpose of humans and animals procreating. Within a placenta, RNA re-combines the best of the genes of the two parents’ DNA, and the foetus coming together inside that placenta to reproduce a new DNA combination individual but after its own kind, e.g., cat, dog, human etc., and not after that of any other ‘kind’ that word “מִיֵּן” literally meaning in Hebrew ‘from nothing’. A cat always has been and always will be a cat. It has no common ancestor with any other species. All it has is a commoner designer, engineer or Creator. But the escaped viruses have now so pervasively populated the environment that we are in danger of being completely destroyed by random RNA viruses attacking living beings which are now operating ‘outside placentas’ where they should normally operate quite benignly and constructively assisting with the growth and development of the foetus safely inside a placenta. Indeed the world is in trouble avoiding and ignoring God and His wisdom. Once again, we should note in circa 700 BC Isaiah 24:5 said this would be the case.

30/11/20, “We’ve got a government promoting illegal activity”. The statement of a radio talk-back caller who had just heard that NZ’s Government was going to allow drug testing at concerts so that concert goers who anyway are going to use them and pass them on to others will not seriously harm their friends or contacts who consume them without really knowing where the drug is from or what it really contains. Emergency legislation is to be introduced so that on the eve of this summer’s rock concerts the party-goers can have their illegal drugs legally tested for safety and perhaps even effectiveness - who knows? The legislation is supposedly time restricted and is only a temporary measure according to the Minister introducing the Bill. Nevertheless, this is yet another illustration of how government, or governance, is slowly, or even rapidly, being eroded. Everywhere, political systems fail to stand against shoddy analysis especially from young people as this episode reveals. They are mostly without God; largely because their parents, grandparents and great grandparents (by now) abandoned God in favour of evolutionism; and are ripe fodder for Antichrist’s wiles. Even now any attempt to reason with them over any technical matter and they just shut down and stop talking. They are convinced of their own righteousness and invincibility. But an army of younger people is rapidly rising to be caught up in Satan’s plan to destroy Israel then humanity. But they do not realise it and are putting their faith in a brave new world of new science and technology.

30/11/20, "World's exotic fragrances are not made by us" - Mother Nature did". These words in an advertisement just reinforce the extent to which the world is snubbing the Creator. This will not go on much longer. In most of the previous generations, perhaps the most recent three or four apart, there was a general respect for God. That has disappeared since 1/1/02. This is ridiculous when ours is the first to discover the amazing ways God designed the minerals and soils of this Earth to produce such wonderful life forms and the DNA-based biosphere we see today where new life arises from wombs and placentas wherein RNA stitches together new infants. We should remember the evolutionist scientists are also telling us six quarks, six leptons and five bosons make up our electrons, protons and neutrons that in turn compose the Hydrogen, Helium, Lithium, Beryllium, Boron, Neon, Carbon, Oxygen, Nitrogen and more than a hundred other "elements" combine to form complex chains of molecules to make the proteins that we (and "fragrances") are all in turn composed of. This is the wonderful stuff of science in the sense it is the process that has revealed all this information to us. Perhaps, alternatively, what 'science' has 'discovered' is all just another Aristotelian-like fake description akin to the medieval nonsense or descriptors consumed by the inhabitants of Western Europe from the latter stages of the Roman Empire until the Renaissance-Reformation. However, only God can 'breathe' on this 'material' to produce life. RNA can never be 'life' in this context. But without God who created everything that exists, the scientists cannot explain what life is or how it came to be within these DNA-based proteins. It is God who designed proteins to spiral in one direction and enzymes in the opposite direction so that the two could combine like nuts and bolts into a single joint and thereby form a nuclear-type reaction inside a sealed chamber known as a stomach to generate life preserving energy all designed and created. Ours is the only generation that God has permitted to receive all this information but this generation is also the one that most fails to honour its Designer, Creator and Sustainer. But it's good news for God's followers through His Only Begotten Son Jesus the Nazarene. The Father is soon sending the Son to fetch His Bride, the Church, so that the next few stages or last stages of God's Kingdom Programme can be progressed.

30/11/20, "Merry Tech-mas". So much for 'Christmas'. Then again, it never really was when no one knew the date for Jesus' Birth. They thought he was born in the year zero until they realised there isn't one. The birth was in 7-6 BC and probably in September or October depending upon the lunar calendar settings for that year. But this is what Santa-Satan has been planning for so its all on but the problem for a disbelieving world is that God has His Plan too and the Santa followers will not like it.

4/12/20, "They turned me into a digital human". That was how a well-known NZ personality described himself after he had returned from the US where a film studio had processed many images of him to develop a computerized 'avatar'. This 'avatar' was able to do many things for one's mental health on one's smart phone "app" to be, for example, one's "sleep coach". Apparently, according to this 'personality', many people were having trouble with sleep patterns during the lock-down in NZ. This famous NZ sporting personality had many health problems especially with depression even at the height of his illustrious career. But he later became a campaigner for so-called mental health difficulties. Interestingly, the avatar will never age. That will be the form of the resurrected body for believers in God. Those who enter the Messianic Kingdom from this age, the sheep Gentiles and Israel at the end of the Apocalypse will likewise have bodies that never age. Possibly, this will be the result of a reversal of the ageng process so that bodies may revert to their adult peak or as they were somewhere between 25-35 or so. Our modern studies into genetics and the deep mysteries of all the deeply embedded 'Junk' DNA we all have possibly hold secrets unknown to modern geneticists about the ageing and regeneration processes for our bodies. All through history there have been tales of the search for the 'elixir' of life. They presumably hark back to the Tree of Life in Eden. Incidentally, this is the real solution to depression or mental instability. Believe and trust in God and look forward to the future stages of His Kingdom Plan for those that believe. Depression and mental health is mostly about disbelieving in this Plan. But churches are responsible for delivering the Good News of God's Kingdom Programme. Sadly they have failed for the most part in delivering that news. For those who think God's programme is a fantasy, perhaps they should consider that bodies do in fact even now regenerate in certain places or functions at certain stages of life. Also the factors that cause us to develop from babies into fully matured adults is a mystery. Why does that process suddenly revert to ageing anyway? Why will resurrection be necessary for some but not others? Just because we may not be able to explain everything concerning such issues does not mean we throw out the baby with the bath-water.

This underscores one very important point we get from the Bible. After God created angels He then also created man. But men and angels have the right to choose. We are not robots. Nor are animals robots. However, man and animal are to some extent 'programmed'. In animals this is sometimes described as instinct and even within humans there can be the experience of 'instinct'. Angels and Men are capable of spiritual relationships with God. Indeed angels basically are spiritual beings, not 'flesh' as man and animals are. Animals are not capable of a spiritual relationship with the Creator but they do have souls and are capable of choosing to love or hate. Cats, especially, are quite capable of loving us one minute but disdaining us the next. We are not supposed to be robots but autonomous individuals responsible for our own actions. God's Grace, Mercy and Love led Him to send His Only Begotten Son to stand (or hang) in Adam's stead on the cross to personally address God's anger at our father's disobedience and rejection of Heavenly Father God. There was no reason for Jesus to do that apart from Love of course. But if Adam's descendants, as every human is, are going to reject this information from the Bible and disagree with God's point that each one of us would have done what Adam did then we will succumb to depression and mental illness. That's because unsynchronized waves of information disturb our minds and souls so much that many descend into sometimes quite terrible depression and even are moved to commit suicide. This is the tragedy from this believer's perspective. One is prevented from sharing God's truth but when one does get the opportunity people are very quick to reject the points and quick to disengage in conversation that might lead to them actually thinking about such things and come to God in repentance. Often, there will be an interruption when one does get a chance to talk in some depth. But that's the power of Satan in the world today. Sadly, people are looking to avatars to help them.

4/12/20, "Everyone needs a daily mental health plan". In our view the best and only really effective mental health plan is found by seeking first the Kingdom of God. Jesus said all the things we need for life, not all the things we want though, are supplied if we are seeking the Kingdom of God. But the real point is to understand why the world is now in such serious trouble. All the world's problems are experienced or jointly suffered or even perpetrated by us in one way or another because we all share in Adam's misdemeanour but we can also all share in Jesus' obedience if we choose to.

4/12/20. Koala found clinging to living room Xmas tree in Australia. A news report today. Possibly a million or more koalas died in last year's forest fires in Australia. Recently in Sri Lanka a young elephant had to be lifted out of a village well he had fallen into although what he was doing there is strange. There are many accounts like this of animals seeming to seek human protection or aid. It reminds us of the account in Genesis where the animals somehow came into Noah's ark. When Jesus talked about the "Days of Noah", perhaps He was also intimating, among other things, that on the eve of the Rapture of the church we will see something like this happen with the animals and birds. The environment is letting these animals down because of the twin impacts of human degradation and the after-effects of the Great Flood such as melting ice caps leading to global warming and things like terrible forest fires. Many people are doing their best to ameliorate the damage to the environment but sadly their motives are not necessarily correct from God's perspective.

14/12/20, "Islam is right about women". This appeared written in chalk on the footpath outside a Christchurch, NZ, mosque where an idiotic madman from Australia came and slaughtered fifty Muslim worshipers about a year ago. Apparently he managed to attack two mosques in Christchurch. But there has been much hullabaloo about right wing extremists being responsible for the crazy gunman's beliefs and philosophies. So some witty wag ("a person who makes facetious jokes", Concise Oxford Dictionary, Tenth Edition) wrote this in chalk on the footpath. One's interest here was sparked because it highlights one way we tend to misuse or even abuse the English language. The 'authro' was drawing attention to a play on words by associating correctness and supposedly right-wing politics in the one word. But it should not be possible to do this. When people ask us a question requiring an affirmative response we say "right" or "that's right". We should say, "agree", or "yes" or even "correct". That third option is the German 'recht' meaning 'right' of course but with the prefix 'co' or 'co-recht' = 'correct'.

However, in French and Hebrew there are very clearly distinctively alternative options. The French never say "droit" nor the Jews "yamin" in the way we say "right". They say "d'accord" and "nachon" respectively when called upon for an affirmative response. To respond in the negative, the French might use 'non' and the Jews "lo nachon".

Still in France but in circa AD 1790, some people living on the low income or intellectual districts on the Left Bank of the River Seine known as the communists took commanding positions on the revolutionary movement that toppled the Bourbon dynasty and plunged France into a temporary republican phase. They held views usually associated with Communists and extreme Socialists today who believe the world's capital (savings) should be held by a proletariat representing the whole population. Through its committees or governance systems, the proletariat would manage the nation's resources. Belief in private ownership of 'capital' did not exist in the most extreme branches of this 'Left Bank' movement. So people who advocated for private capital ownership or control became known as the 'right' wing'. The implied joke here is that people in the 'centre' were actually "in the Seine" (Insane). Of course 'moderates' would never tolerate being described as "insane".

However, in addressing the point that the Islamic or Muslim religious faith is philosophically, morally or perhaps intellectually 'correct' or agreeable from any reasonable perspective the 'irony' perhaps is quite interesting. This writer has spoken to Muslim women who entirely accord with the teachings of the Koran and the Hadith (the Islamic equivalent to the Jewish Talmud or the Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant Churches' "Sayings of the Fathers"). Genuine Bible-based Christians following the teachings of Jesus and the Apostles, obedient to the Noahic Covenant etc., would or should cite Ephesians 5:21-33 for Christians' response to the way men should relate to women. However, in the words "submit yourselves one to another in the fear of God" (echoing Solomon in Ecclesiastes 12:13) that's also the way we should all treat 'one another'. Verse 23 also requires "husbands", and only husbands, to be prepared to give up their lives for the wives even to the point that Jesus did in actually dying in the process for the entire Church which anyone can choose to be a member of. If men cannot face that obligation, don't get married or certainly don't within the context of a Christian wedding service. Women, children and all the ways everyone treats one another does not 'by commandment' mean actually laying down one's life for anyone. Although certainly scriptures imply that is indeed a noble and good thing to do in certain dire situations. The principle in Ephesians is why in shipping we once held the dictum that women and children should be first to evacuate a sinking liner and board life-rafts, then man and the captain be the last to leave or even go down with the vessel.

Unfortunately in today's rush to brand "colonialism" and governance as somehow evil when these principles or systems have their ultimate origin in the Bible, an essentially Jewish document, those important principles have sunk almost without trace. While writing this a radio talk-back host ironically named 'Roman' said how "boring" it is for people to buy a Bible to give to someone else. So one rang into the show only for this character to launch into an anti-Semitic tirade against Israel simply proving the point about the Bible's prophecies. He did not like one suggesting the whole Bible is relevant. One tried to point out that the Laws of Moses were only for Israel to follow and no one else but that the churches don't teach that. As these fascist talk-back hosts do, they cut off the caller to ridicule anything they say where it's in disagreement with the host's own views. One needed to follow-up by saying that one cannot throw out the Bible's validity on the basis of what people, say or think about it.

But you are never going to get a word in edgewise in these Last Days of Noah and Lot. One also notes, in saying that, the null hypothesis to our being in the days of "Noah and Lot" is that we are alternatively right back in the darkest of times which Europe, for example went through, in the 5th to 17th centuries or to the Middle East of 1500-1000 BC when Amalek operated anarchy all through that region. We will just have to wait and see now whether the first Gog-magog invasion of Israel is about to take place. Or wait to see if the candidate we have in mind for antichrist-666 really is emerging and whether that individual is some sort of decoy for yet another identity waiting in the wings. Most importantly for Christians, we await the Rapture if we are indeed in precisely the situation the Lord was intimating when He spoke about that subject and the Apostle Paul also wrote about (I Corinthians 15:52, I Thessalonians 4:16-17, Titus 2:13).

20/12/20, "Wisdom is what we do with knowledge". From an interview on radio where the author had written a book entitled The Socrates Express by Mr Eric Weiner. He (or perhaps Socrates himself) put it this way; "Knowledge is knowing that a tomato is a fruit; but wisdom is knowing not to put it into a fruit salad".

20/12/20, "Philosophy begins with wonder". Apparently another pearl from Socrates. The problem with all these modern commentators on ancient philosophers; especially about Greece's 'gang of three', Socrates, Plato and Aristotle; is that they fail to understand how Greece got its great thinkers, mathematicians and engineers. They were emigre Ionians or Jews and Dorians or Tyrians, Gebalites (of Byblos) and Sidonians who had fled the Levant from circa 800-700 BC after the gradual breakdown of internal security and poor governance complemented with rising corruption. Then invasions from Chaldeans and Assyrians finished off the former regimes of Tyre, Samaria, Jerusalem, Memphis and Thebes. The Jews of course had the True Wisdom of the One True God who created all things. In effect, they took it to Greece where combined with other philosophies emerged into 'Hellenism'. It was a sort of synthesis of Israel and Hellenic or Aegean Greece.

But these commentators don't understand all that nor will they even discuss with us what we know. Thus, they are using a false history generated from the falsified chronology of ancient Egypt's History. But in reality, after our corrections of those errors in the Western academy's 'official' record of ancient Egypt; one truly can develop the truth about that 'glorious' era of ancient Greece and the things we write about Israel and Tyre that in effect was that ancient ex-pat, emigre, or even cosmopolitan but former Levantine wisdom and knowledge. Thus we understand the fallacies of these ancient philosophers and their students and modern commentators. It was the wisdom of Israel in effect that led to the flowering of Greece by the time Socrates had arrived on the scene. Socrates may well have been Jewish. He was the one who introduced debt forgiveness or write-off to Athens. But where did he get that idea from if it had not been written down as a command to Israel through Moses?

It was by breaching and dishonouring laws relating to land ownership, indebtedness resulting from loss and famine or other hardships many people often face; and many other Commandments that Moses gave Israel; that God temporarily withdrew His Blessing and Protection of Israel. That was not to be forever. Should these ancient philosophers have believed other parts of the Jewish scriptures, they would have realised Israel's downfall was merely temporary. In God's Plan, there was much more His Story (History) for Israel in God's Long term Plan for the next three and a half millennia after 500 BC (including Christ's Messianic Millennium). We perhaps should wonder to what extent Socrates' philosophy was Jewish. We also wonder if he like Plato decided that the Bible, or God's Word, or Plan, had become unreliable once the Kingdom of Israel under its Mosaic system had collapsed and failed. But they were unaware of God's Plan as our writing explains. So they ended up developing philosophies of their own that people today still prefer to read, use or adopt rather than turn to their Bible and looking for help to read the Bible where they find they cannot understand what it is saying. That process has been going on until our day. Except that the fallen ancient so called 'great' philosophers such as Confucius, Buddha, Zoroaster, Dao, Lao Tse, Plato, Aristotle, Ptolemy, Augustine and Aquinas, are worshiped as pioneers and leaders. But they all rejected God because as Merneptah of Egypt observed in 586 BC not 1210 BC. He wrote, the message still on view in Cairo's Museum, that "Israel's Seed is castrated". Or in other words, he was saying that God had abandoned His Plan for the salvation and redemption of the world through the 'Seed of the Woman Plan' of Genesis 3:15, a scripture known and understood all around the world if only people would believe. But God's Plan was to cover a longer period than most people realised, and that it had to run a course begun by Adam's folly possibly for six millennia. Anyway, one needs to dump the philosophers and turn to the Bible to explain what has been going on, what is going on and what is soon to happen.

20/12/20, "Ridicule is the price of wisdom". It 'screws you up for the rest of your life', a statement according to Mr Weiner that Mr Steve Martin a well-known US comedian once made explaining why Mr Martin embarked on a career as a comedian. Those of us who have fully agreed and support God's Plan for the World (and Universe) do find ourselves sitting here laughing along with God (Psalm 2:4, Psalm 37:12-13, 59:8, and especially Proverbs 1:25-9 which just about sums it all up).

20/12/20, "Sooner or later, life makes us all philosophers". Eric Weiner, The Socrates Express, his new book. In a funny sort of way this is a very important insight. Those who reject God's Plan, especially the soteriological aspect of it, will have an Eternity to philosophize about their refusal to acknowledge God's Plan. Those of us who do believe end up eventually enjoying the tree of Revelation 22:2 instead of the Internet which is currently Man's Tree of Knowledge. He commented on the modern-day love affair with 'self-help' books. He said they were attempts at philosophy but of a less rigorous kind than the Aeropagites of the Greek thinkers. He referred to Marcus Aurelius having difficulty getting out of bed although, and apparently, that he was one of the wealthiest men in the world as well as a Roman emperor. Socrates also apparently lived during a pandemic or plague. He equated the Logos with the Dao or 'The Way'. Those 'ways' are rubbish and the Way of Jesus who is The Way, The Truth and The Life, so much more of course, is the Only Way. To follow any other is disastrous and Jesus' Way apparently is quite "narrow" to boot. However, to some extent, narrow also means 'simple and quite straight forward. It needs very little to accept. It is freely given. In fact, the early Church was known as "The Way" (Acts 9:2, 18:25-26, 19:9, 23; 22:4, 24:14, 22 and perhaps in a clear contrast to 'self-help' books, Hebrews 10:20 "A new and living Way"). But Mr Weiner and his interviewer; who also claimed on an earlier programme that Christians believe the universe is only 4000 years old; seemed absolutely oblivious to anything Jesus or the Bible Scribes said.

20/12/20, "Philosophers seemed to be inveterate walkers". Perhaps this is part of the problem, since philosophers are ridiculed, that this writer is also dealing with since he gave up driving cars in 1992 and has been walking ever since, occasionally using public transport especially for long distance or over oceans.

20/12/20, "Attention is Love". It is sad this is so true for many people. The author of The Socrates Express said this was a point of view held by another modern philosopher. But he also began talking at this point about the true nature of the Stoics who believed we have control of our internal world but not of the external world. So what we may or may not achieve is because of the way we deal with what is ever thrown at us. Of course, ostracism and banishment is what we 'philosophers' of Christ get! But we also know what love really is. Although it probably is fair to say that if we do Love God that we should at least pay attention to what He says.

20/12/20, "The Parable of the Chinese Farmer". There is very little one now admires about China having as a ten-year old read a complete History of China from a library book. One's reading of that led to one having quite a lot of respect for China. Most of that has since disappeared now that China is under the control of a quite vicious regime. The world opened up to China after, apparently, having closed itself off from that country because of its historic misdemeanors, especially the plagues its animal markets exported. But which nation does not have its misdemeanors? However, Mr Nixon offered a very magnanimous gesture as the leader of a far more powerful nation and go across to China to meet Mao Tse Tung and bury hatchets.

Unfortunately, under the regime now operating in China, its leader grasping power for life against all expectations, we now find out (see below) China is taking a very different road to that which we all hoped it would cooperate with. It now considers itself as the principal determiner of how the world will operate, i.e., as a totalitarian regime. Of course, this may well be how the world does end up anyway from some interpretations of the Bible.

Anyway, as the parable goes, every time the farmer received some good news or bad news he would reply "may be, may be not". Thus the interviewer and author concluded philosophy is 'maybeism'.

20/12/20, "Does it matter which philosopher you choose"? We would say the choice is limited to One. That is Jesus of Nazareth who is the Son of God which means it would be very stupid to choose anyone else to follow. What was really disturbing in all this was that Jesus never got a mention let alone anyone else in the Bible.

20/12/20, "The New Map". This is a book by a Mr Daniel Yergin. Subtitled, Energy, Climate and the Clash of Nations, the book is about the changing map of trade and energy in the world economy and concomitant 'battles in technology'. The One Belt One Road of China policy was discussed and how it could erase the US (and other countries') influence in the world. 'Maybe' that is why China exported yet another virus this time out of the internationally collaborative genetics laboratory next to the illegal wild animal trade market in Wuhan: the biggest in the world along with Bangkok's (at least the latter reportedly is going to be closed down). The book asks, 'Has China beaten the US at the globalization game'? However, he did note that the US has now emerged as the biggest oil producer in the world and China has far too little oil for its needs. Although there is now so much oil all over the place that even the bombing of a big Arabian oil installation failed to lead to any panic in world prices.

The interviewer, presumably unaware of the things we know about from God's Word, concluded the television interview with Deng Tsao Ping's conclusion that the world would become "one planet with two systems". However, from a later programme on the relationships between Hong Kong, Taiwan, Macao and mainland China, Deng's dictum probably arose out of his desire to bring Taiwan back into a better relationship with China as "one country two systems". More recently, Macao and Hong Kong have been relating to this concept in different ways. The large "middle class" in Hong Kong, or according to other sources the "working classes" (or perhaps both) is (are) much more strident in advocating their democratic rights and other freedoms than Macao seems to be. And Taiwan seems still very reluctant to lose any of what it perceives to be its independence. Thus at the moment, of the three, Macao is much more willing to cooperate with Deng's original dictum than either Hong Kong or Taiwan. Of course these ructions are also worrying other nations who fear China bullying them too. Nevertheless, there are some younger people in Macao tending more towards the prevailing views found in HK or Taiwan. In fact some of these ructions arose out of the failure of the legal systems between Macao, Taiwan and China leading to the escape from justice of a man who allegedly had brutally raped a woman although one is not too sure what is happening in that situation or if there is more embellishment than truth going on regarding that potentially heinous issue.

Right now under China's newly minted totalitarian regime, these are major issues we see with China because its fascist system masquerading under the guise of a 'communist party' is not to the liking of the majority in the world. Although as far as China's CCP is concerned, there are difficulties bestowing certain rights on some 'Chinese cities' groups and denying them to others. And of course there is the potential problem of outright persecution of Muslim minorities, not forgetting Tibet etc. But in other ways, the late Deng Tsao Ping whom one does still respect, could have been reflecting something far more important, historic and indeed 'global'. That is a return to the East-West divide that Solomon negotiated between the Kings of Tyre and Beijing in circa 950 BC when the two commercial forces in the Western and Eastern Hemispheres were clashing over trade, shipping rights, borders etc. Solomon divided the world into East and West using the longitude running through both poles and down through the Torres Strait separating the Pacific and Indian Oceans and down the middle of the Atlantic where the Azores sit close to the boundary line on the other side of the globe from the Torres Strait Islands.

However, our deeper interest in any 'New Map' of the world lies in the prophecies in the Book of Daniel about the last days of the Times of the Gentiles and the way the world has been run by the four empires since 586 BC (fall and destruction of Jerusalem and her temple), i.e., Chaldean Babylon, Persia, Greece then Rome (now The West) through all its stages to this day. A world of ten nations will soon be the map of Nations and their 'kings' who hand over control to the son of Satan (Antichrist) and that means Beijing will too suggesting China's new found 'muscle' will be a quite short-term phenomenon as Babylon will soon begin to exercise its age-old muscles in earnest to provide a base for the Antichrist from which to operate. But like the philosophers of the previous items for today, these modern prognosticators have feet of clay mingled with bits of solid iron. It just needs some water with a bit of pressure from a hose to undermine their philosophies and collapse their systems.

19/12/20, "Flu virus does evolve or as it's known 'drift'". Dr Chris Smith answering an interviewer's question about the ability of vaccines to cope with new strains of Corona Virus (Covid19). He added this continuous drift enables flu to rapidly evolve giving it "an extra string to its bow". On the other hand, "Covid19 does not change its genetic code much". In our view that smells of a certain degree of genetic engineering to shackle this virus to some extent so that it is less contagious or more contagious but perhaps less virulent. If this is the product of genetic engineering then one must ask the question if someone is controlling this as a warning we can conduct germ warfare on a new scale so toe the line. Who is controlling those strings if indeed they are being pulled in such a manner.

Anyway, the informative but evolutionist expert also told us, "part of the modus operandi of flu is that it does evolve ....but Covid does not change its genetic code much (or 'not genetically able')". That is to say, "Corona viruses are quite good at maintaining their genetic integrity ... so they don't have a high evolution rate in the same way that flu does".

We don't have any argument using a theory like evolution to act as a null hypothesis to Creation or to reverse the roles. However, the damage viruses are doing in the environment makes one wonder why they are there at all. They are, as Dr Smith also noted, RNA and the vaccines to combat them are RNA based too. But how did RNA stop doing its proper role alone which is to stitch together the genes of a new animal or human within the placenta and womb of females? How did viruses escape from their proper environment and into the outside world where they act, for the most part improperly killing living things? No one asks let alone answers these questions. That is because they see viruses as being one of the earliest forms of long chemical chains that began the processes of forming DNA then living things. This is the stuff of evolutionary theory that says all things come into being through a long process of slow gradual change over very long periods of time. Our Creation argument is that God set the whole thing up, almost like a fully wound-up clock then set it going. But with the Fall of Satan then Adam, that clock has slowly been winding down as the creation now croaks and groans through the Fall until it must inevitably fail. Otherwise God would have kept the universe sustained.

That's why the Bible says there will be a new universe after this one has completed its course set by the falls of Satan then Adam. But the scientists are wedded to evolutionary theory and fail to see the wood for the trees and are trying to defend against the indefensible in that world of micro-organisms known as viruses although they are not life in themselves. Viruses are more like tools used to stitch together new life as long as they are within the proper environment to do so. Outside their proper environment they are like loose cannons or like a very fast car on the road with drunk teenagers at the wheel with little idea how to drive the car, no sense of speed, getting high on drugs or alcohol and oblivious to what may be around the corner.

22/12/20, "It's been catastrophic to say the least" - Oxfam. A comment on a radio interview about delivering vaccines for Covid19 to poor countries. The spokeswoman for Oxfam called for radical restructuring of the standard model of commercial and proprietary rights, manufacturing capability and transfer of technical knowhow, the latter vital or critical when playing around with things like vaccines. Another Oxfam spokesman later in the day on a TV programme said we have to "face-down the pharmaceutical companies" to "bring equity", as another commentator said, to 192 low income countries in getting access to vaccines. Also in the Covid19 panic, Oxfam reported problems with other diseases, especially malaria cited in the discussion, were putting great stress world-wide on poor-country health services but were being overlooked or left unattended as resources were diverted into the Covid issue. The local radio station interviewer made the point that many people with other urgent medical needs were slipping well down the waiting lists for treatment all over the world it seems.

The use of the word 'catastrophic' reminds us of the world's history with 'catastrophes' which modern science tends to dismiss in its over-arching uniformitarian and evolutionist philosophy. The Bible explains why the world has been subject to previous catastrophes usually generated by events in the unstable solar system affecting not only Planet Earth but other planets as well. As we also suggest, this is part of a six millennia Plan God had to obstruct Man's plans to use science and technology to survive and thrive without God. What has been happening since circa 1648 is that God is now permitting Man to get to his target which is that touch-tronic computer in the Garden of Eden (Tree of Knowledge) and to a Tree of Life that he can access through 'medical science' and finally do without God. Unfortunately, Man is only making himself a slave to Satan who will eventually destroy him. Mercifully and Graciously, God will not allow that to happen but there is no cheer either for people who do not accept the terms and conditions of God's Salvation sub-plan in the overarching Plan.

The Covid19 catastrophe and deriving problems like health systems in danger of breaking down are the result of rogue viruses. We suspect from our analysis of science harmonized with the Bible that viruses are the result of Man's sin either via fooling around with genetics; perhaps through animal breeding and even possibly, though unlikely, attempts at inter-breeding animals with humans; or from thousands of years of sexual misbehaviour (from God's perspective). Thus viruses escaped from their proper role in God's biosphere in forming new individuals within placentas and wombs. Until now, as far as the biosphere is concerned, the catastrophes we are encountering are mostly the result of Man's stupidity.

But the Bible forecasts more catastrophes that will be delivered to the Earth by God's angels in the Apocalypse. We are not there yet and will not be until the Church Age ends with the Rapture. The signs are that we are nearly there. Then again, we may not be. Thus, what is happening right now is perhaps an unusual convergence of a number of unrelated issues, or unintended consequences arising from other actions, improbably coming together at the moment or in 2020-21. Oddly enough, today Saturn and Jupiter (* see footnote below) have come very close to a convergence in the night sky. Every 20 years or so this happens but on this occasion the convergence is so close that it will be another four centuries before they get this close again. Four centuries ago around 1620 when Kepler, Galileo and others were taking a close interest in the events in the skies as they were trying to figure out exactly how the solar system worked, were using this event to get a rare good look at things in the sky. They could also see the moons of both planets which considerably upset the conventional theories about the universe and our solar system.

The warning here is that 'modern' science's understanding of the macrocosm and microcosm; 'two universes in divergent directions' one might say; is equally fanciful as the prevailing theories before the 17th Century dawn on the understanding of the solar system in Europe or at least by Europeans. Our concerns in this regard are with: Egyptology and its Chronology; Environmentalism and its 4C paradigm that 'Carbon Causes Climate Change'; and Evolutionism and its refusal to even discuss a Creation Perspective which involves the Falls of Man and Satan to explain current breakdowns in both the macrocosm and microcosm. These three areas of the Academy, and probably many others too, have become equally dogmatic and fascistic in that it is 'their way' or the 'highway' and that we all have to worship and bow down to their dictates therein. They are godless too. Newton's critics mocked him with their adage that 'God is a wonderful watch-maker but a lousy repair man'. Of course the point is that Satan's rebellion resulted in the Judgement of the Universe so that it will one day completely collapse. Then Adam ruined things in our environment and biosphere by disobeying the command to leave the tree of knowledge alone (the touch-tronic computer in the Garden of Eden).

Closer to the scale of the microcosm, today also in NZ there was a report that showed the country's complicated electricity generation, distribution and retail sections faced a convergence of five very unusual factors that led to a breakdown in the pricing system so that some companies appeared to be manipulating the system to gouge massive profits at the cost of all the other participants in the sector. Apparently there had been a planned major overhaul of an important line in the reticulation sector. There were very heavy rain-storms causing water at dams to be spilled when the hydro dam owners did not want to in their annual storage strategies and then fell short of water at a later critical time. More expensive thermal sources had to come on stream thus upsetting NZ's attempts to control carbon pollution (as the mad climate change people see things). A couple of other unexpected events contributed to the short-term pricing chaos. But it all happened a year ago, was a highly complicated situation within a very complex operating system, hence the delay in this information becoming available in today's report which took a lot of time to compose.

But many of these 'convergences' are themselves products of Man's thirst and quest for knowledge to save himself with 'science' as his god or "bedrock" as the US President Elect Joe Biden said recently. As God warned Adam, that was not what he should have done. Adam should have continued relying on God to learn not try and learn for himself without God's help and advice. Nevertheless, a Just and Fair God had allowed Adam to make a choice on everyone's behalf. So this is where we are. Perhaps, a null hypothesis to the view that the Rapture and the Apocalypse are on the way, or potentially at any second for the Rapture, is that we are just in an unusual conjunction of 'convergences'. Perhaps we can get out of this mess with our 'science'. Even if we do, can we get ourselves out of even deeper mire later on? The Bible does seem to say that without doubt, no we cannot solve this or future dilemmas. In the end, no flesh is going to survive (Matthew 24:22 and Mark 13:20).

Readers are invited to look at a number of peculiarly difficult problems in "Key Subjects" and the Major Issues section therein. Also (*), the conjunction of Saturn and Jupiter also occurred in 7 BC. Some reports were saying that was the year Jesus was born. Actually that is quiet correct but there have been concerted actions taken to hide that information. That is all part of the plan to discredit the Bible along the false Egyptology, the Evolutionism etc. So now they do want to admit that date. This simply raises our suspicions. As a footnote to this footnote, one's grandmother travelled to the USA in 1936-37 and one was given the task of typing her handwritten diaries onto a computer. While in New York, being hosted by a Jewish family, they took her to the Metropolitan Museum Observatory to a session entitled The Night Sky over Bethlehem in 7 BC. I realized at the time that Jewish sources had long been aware that was the year Jesus came into the world (incarnated). They knew but our 'leaders' and 'theologians' either never knew or were so absorbed with their own propoganda that they continued to hide such information to confuse and control in which they have been very successful.

However, from the Bible in Luke 2:9, angels and "the glory of the Lord shining" appeared to some shepherds in a field near Bethlehem. That 'glory' was not Saturn and Jupiter as some pagans believe. The sign those shepherds got to identify Jesus as a baby wrapped in "swaddling clothes" and lying in a place for feeding (Luke 212) which then would have ben a sukka prepared for the eight-day Sukkoth Feast where the most food is eaten out of any of the feasts. A bit later, perhaps even as late as 5-4 BC, when Jesus might have been nearly two years old, in Matthew 2:2 the Maji from Persia and Iraq ('The East'), perhaps even with Jews resident in the East in the mainly Gentile delegation, said the saw "His Star". This was in the possessive case. It was Jesus' Star. Neither Jupiter nor Saturn are stars, though they may have been once perhaps. But there are two of them and if they had been in conjunction with Mars, Uranus and Neptune as well they would appear even more significant. But Jesus' "star" was just one, not two or more and was His and not belonging to anyone or anything else such as a solar system. If anything, since God originally created the Universe for Satan and angels, Jupiter and Saturn belong to them, not Jesus although as Creator they are of course His in that sense. This star in Matthew 2:2 was 'personal'.

In Matthew 2:7, Herod "inquired of them diligently what time the star appeared". Since people have been studying the stars for millennia and had been for at least two before Herod, he and everyone else knew exactly when Saturn and Jupiter had conjoined in this way in 7 BC. This star of Jesus was clearly a much more personal and individual thing that even just one person might see, perhaps a group of some sort would see or witness but not something that everybody or anybody would or could see. So the Magi were not talking about the conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn even assuming it did take place in 7 BC. But we will accept today's astronomers word on that - no problem.

In Matthew 2:9, the Magi left Herod's palace when suddenly the 'star' re-appeared right in front of them. If that had happened in Herod's palace or the star was with them while in Herod's palace then this star would have been obvious to everyone unless everybody was somehow oblivious to it. Moreover, in Matthew 2:9 & 10, they clearly had not seen the star for sometime, perhaps even two years earlier, now all of a sudden the star is right in front of them. Even more surprisingly and to their very obvious delight, the star even takes them a few miles down the road south of Herod's palace in Jerusalem to not just Bethlehem but right on top of just one single house in Bethlehem. The star was not over any other house either. It is impossible to understand how Jupiter and Saturn managed to combine with each other to do that. Unless, of course, they actually are gods. Unfortunately, the Bible rules that outside the realms of possibility. If Saturn and Jupiter are gods then the rest of the Biblical text must be rendered null and void or at least unreliable.

In Matthew 2:12, it is not the star that guides them to depart the region by avoiding Herod but a dream. If a dream suffices to guide them away from Herod in a different direction then surely a dream could have sufficed back in the 'East'. After all, Daniel, and Nebuchadnezzar, and others apparently by implication, were receiving significant dreams about things. It seems very odd that God used this 'star' to get these Magi to come to Israel. Actually it was the prophecies they had from Balaam and Daniel and other Jewish prophets that these people were aware something interesting had to happen in Israel by then. Nevertheless, God used a 'star' to get them to come across to Israel actually from a region in the world then at war with Rome. So how they managed to get across the front lines in that war is another mystery unless the warring nations, along with many other nations perhaps, had jointly agreed to waive hostilities for such an important event. That probably is what happened but like everything else the Academics and Historians are covering up a lot of information to confuse us.

In Matthew 2:13, an angel then suddenly re-appeared to Joseph; he must have been getting used to all this by now; and told him to escape to Egypt because Herod's soldiers were on the way to slaughter every baby and toddler up to two years old in Bethlehem. In Matthew 2:19 again an angel came to Joseph to tell him it was safe to go back to Israel. When angels and dreams seem to have done most of the work in alerting men and women to what was going on, including with the birth of John the Baptist in the previous chapter of Matthew, the emphasis on twice using a 'star' just for these mystics, savants, astronomers or whatever from Iran and Iraq or even from China and India too seems bizarre. And that's the word to use because that is exactly what happened to Moses 1500 years previously. That is recorded in Exodus 3:2 - 4:17 and Deuteronomy 33:16. Jupiter and Saturn did not startle Moses in the Arabian desert, God did with His star, or 'glow' may be a better word. Deuteronomy 3:16 refers to "He that dwelt in the bush". It literally was God who appeared to the Magi in the East and who returned to guide them from Herod's palace to a single house in Bethlehem at some time before, even up to two years previously. Probably it was the same house that had a sukka attached to it when the shepherds found Jesus. The shepherds had to look for the house with a sukka. No doubt they could not just walk in on strangers so they presumably saw the baby in the Sukka wrapped up in the burial cloths that most sukkas had to wrap a mummy of Joseph at the special Feast of Sukkoth. In the case of Mary and Joseph's new born baby it was their real baby not a doll of some sort wrapped in swaddling clothes. That's how the shepherds found their child. Jupiter and Saturn, even if bizarrely they turn out to be gods after all, had no part to play whatsoever in the Birth of the Christ. For more detail, read Exodus 3:2-6 about what the God of Moses' fathers did then and apply the information to Matthew's account.

31/12/20, "The one shining light through all this is the science". Dr Anthony Fucci responding to questions on an international television news service programme. He highlighted the development or harnessing of mRNA in combating this 'pandemic'. He said, "RNA viruses change all the time" [we say all viruses are escaped RNA] where "changes could make it more transmissible but not necessarily more virulent". [We do hear this common theme or refrain being orchestrated by the medical profession and its back-up scientists. This makes one even more suspect they are using this phenomenon as a vehicle for Antichrist, in effect, to control everyone especially in their movements etc. It is the ultimate Fascist or Leftist dictatorship in the guise of "public health". It's the same mantra Hitler used with his doctors in support as a medical student once warned this observer].

Speaking about the "mRNA technology" they have, it allows one to quickly adapt a vaccine to accommodate any sudden new change in the virus' "functionality" in whatever aspect - defence capability, attack capability, resistance ability, virulence and transmission etc. [From 22/8/20, "The aliens among us", The Economist, 22-28 August 2020, and its main essay on the matter in "The Outsiders Inside" we have been able to work out that so-called "mRNA" really is a product of earlier hi-tech genetic experiments and research in to how they can manipulate the "building blocks of life" as one scientist from history warned would be "the day God will say, 'Gentlemen, time to shut up shop'". What they in effect do is to use RNA strings and bind them into a helix like DNA so that 'RNA' in effect becomes "DNA". However, one wonders just how stable such things are. They use them to postulate that DNA somehow evolved out of RNA or viruses in the primeval soup that life is supposed to have first come from here on Earth. That is in fact a view they now seriously doubt on many grounds; preferring the arrival of DNA in some form from comets and asteroids; but it remains useful for public discourse. However, they also use 'Evolution' that a priori is supposed to be proven to say that viruses are therefore playing a part in the continued evolution of the biosphere. It seems they want to have these things both ways as being both good and bad. But that just shows the idiosyncrasy and deception inherent in all this stuff which we as spirit-filled Christians trusting in the Word of God (Who also became flesh in Jesus of Nazareth) simply do not buy. More than that, we see through all this stuff for the nonsense that it is].

31/12/20, "It's a problem of public health not politics nor personal liberty". Dr Fucci continuing his diatribe with the interviewer. .He said science has "established and clearly proven a path to controlling the virus". However, these 'experts' who know everything but consider the rest of us as idiots, claim certain people are "politicizing instead of prioritizing public health". [One of our major points here is that anyone who has been living a clean and moral life, who is disciplined and who washes his hands, keeps away from everyone when one has a cold or flu, diets and eats properly, exercises without pushing the body to the ridiculous extremes many sportsmen and athletes do; will survive most challenges to one's immune system. In that regard, it is well known that young girls maturing into young women seriously disrupt their biological cycles by getting into extreme-for-them sports, gymnastics etc. Also, people taking on roles or jobs that are beyond their real capability yet they persist in them often getting caught up; via their obvious deviancies or inefficiencies they subsequently try to cover-up; with corruption, even fraud, and thereby suffer extreme stress. In such debilitated condition, people will easily succumb to a 'nasty' (or Nazti) like Covid19. Many people, contract the virus with little or no significant effect. The hordes of Covid patients crowding the hospitals are more than likely these a priore less-than-robust-health types.

Then the good doctor noted, "there will be other outbreaks of other things so we have to learn now how to deal with them and not make the same mistakes". [Of course this is just what they want to bring about. That is dictatorship, world government etc. However, here in their defence, the Word of God also predicted a world government for the End Times and a counterfeit Christ who would take control of it when it decentralizes into ten regions of the world each with a king or a president. All ten 'leaders' will collectively hand over ultimate power to the Antichrist and then we will see that son of Satan bring the world to the denouement forecast in the Bible in the Apocalypse-Tribulation. It really does seem we are down that path but one never knows, something else might come out of the woodwork or perhaps too much has been exaggerated by the media and by scientists who love publicity].

Then the interviewer brought up that old canard. Yes Senior Galileo was presented by the interviewer; the doctor deep down would have known much better; as a paragon of science when asking the doctor about resistance to 'science'. [This is the normal fascism on that matter i.e., that Galileo attempted to bring science to the world but was attacked and persecuted by the authorities for doing so]. Fucci said, "science has been very successful in identifying a new pathogen then coming up with a vaccine within 11 months". He also describe that process in 'science' as a "coup de force". Discussing anti-vaxers, Fucci said, "the good news is that science has triumphed" but there is still "pushback against science in the community". One can agree with Fucci's statement that "no one can say they have been unaffected". Our point here might be, Yes, we have kept ourselves fit, moral and healthy but you are now going to persecute, imprison us, and deny us our rights all in the name of a so-called pandemic and threat to 'public health'. Finally, the interviewer brought up yet another masonic canard aimed at unifying all the religions so that its world parliament can support Antichrist's Government. He asked the doctor, "what about the holidays of Chanukah, Xmas and Ead - when can we start enjoying them as usual?" The doctor avoided the question but it was put there for the signal to keep up with the programme to unify the religions. That's what they hope for but extremist Muslims will never let up in their fight. One would agree that religion on balance is a bad thing. However, those of us following Jesus of Nazareth are not playing religion anyway. Not that most people understand that. They probably won't until the Rapture takes us out of the fray unless one dies beforehand; a fate one might now say is better than life.

31/12/20, "Saints are boring: nobody wants to live with you". A line from a TV film where Mr Hugh Grant, a property tycoon's brother says this to Sandra Bullock a social lawyer trying to stop Mr Grant's firm destroying a local community centre to build a massive tower block on the site. He makes a promise to save the site but has to renege when forced to by wider circumstances beyond his control. However, in these days when so many are caught up in the world's corruption so to speak those who do try to keep clean, especially the saints of Jesus of Nazareth, are in fact ostracized for the most part. It's a good line to end the year with.
